Elaborate Santa Parade Set As Christmas Season Opener

Arrangements for a Santa parade to open Marion's Christmas season Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving, were announced today by the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

This year's parade will surpass those of other years in length and beauty, according to the Chamber committee in charge of arrangements. Eight floats, four bands, flags of the United Nations, story book characters and Mr. and Mrs. Santa on their own float will be included, the Chamber committee reports.

The parade will be held at noon and will move through the downtown area.

An elaborate display of street decorations is planned. The street lights and laurel will be hung and each pole will be decorated with two pine wreaths.

A majority of the retailers, the Chamber reports, have indicated they intend to follow the following store hours during the Christmas season: remain open on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 27, and each Wednesday afternoon until after Christmas; remain open the nights of Friday, Saturday and Monday, Dec. 20, 21 and 23; close at 5:30 p. m. Christmas eve.

POLICE HUNT MISSING BOWLING GREEN GIRL

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., Nov. 8—The Ohio highway patrol and sheriffs were searching northwestern Ohio today for Mary Zimmerman, a 19-year-old co-ed of Bowling Green State university, who has been missing since Wednesday night.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tiffin Zimmerman, of route 5, Eaton, joined in the unsuccessful search Wednesday and yesterday.

Miss Zimmerman, a sophomore majoring in physical education, was last seen at 6 p. m. Wednesday evening at Bryan, boarding a bus for Toledo, where she was to transfer to a Bowling Green bus.

She was put on the bus by Miss Dora Damron, a physical education teacher in the Bryan schools, with whom she had visited Tuesday night and Wednesday.

The young woman, a "B" student who was voted the outstanding pledge of her sorority, Kappa Delta, last year, weighs 130 pounds, is 5 feet 2 inches tall, has brown bobbed hair and was wearing a powder blue suit and "Sloppy Joe" shoes. She had no hat or luggage.

FIRM TO EXPAND ITS SALES FORCE

Na-Churs Plant Food To Add 25 to 30 Men.

The recently organized Na-Churs Plant Food Co., of 124 Blaine avenue, a subsidiary of the Berlou Manufacturing Co. of the same address, today announced plans for greatly enlarging its sales force for the national distribution of its new liquid fertilizer.

Bernhard Peterson, president of the new company, disclosed that preparations are being made to add between 25 and 30 salesmen to the force by Jan. 1, 1947. These new field representatives will be recruited from all parts of the country, and will be brought to Marion during the last week in December to receive an intensive training course in the company's new product and its many applications.

Mr. Peterson also announced the position of general manager of the Na-Churs Plant Food Co. had recently been filled by George Irwin, formerly of Orange, N. J.

Mr. Irwin, an attorney by profession, was formerly associated with the Hardware Mutual Casualty Co. of Orange where he was in charge of the claims and adjustments division.

Other officials of the newly formed company include H. A. Petrich, vice president; P. W. Cline, sales manager; and E. J. Frank, advertising manager.

Death Claims C. E. Curtis

Marion Funeral Director for 40 Years Dies in Dayton Hospital.

Death claimed Charles Edward Curtis of Dayton, a funeral director here for nearly 40 years, at 5:30 p. m. yesterday in a hospital at Dayton. In failing health for the last three years his condition became serious four weeks ago.

Coming here from Greenville, O., at the turn of the century Mr. Curtis was first employed with William Fies, funeral director, and later established a business in partnership with his nephew, Ross Curtis. Some time later Mr. Curtis formed a partnership with C. H. Postle under the firm name of Postle and Curtis. In 1918 he formed a partnership with Miss Christine Rieck and T. J. Lucas, which continued until 1928, when Mr. Curtis and Miss Rieck became the owners. The business was purchased by E. K. Smith in 1939 and is now known as the Edwin K. Smith Home for Funerals.

Once Worked in Chicago

Prior to coming to Marion Mr. Curtis was employed with the firm of Postle Waite in Chicago. He saw many changes and much progress made in his profession, among them the replacing of the horse-drawn hearse by the automobile, and was the first to place a motorized ambulance in service here.

Interested in the progress of Marion he was generous in the support of civic movements and devoted a great deal of time and effort to projects adding to the improvement and betterment of the city. In 1937 he instituted a movement for the reclaiming of the old Quarry street cemetery, and for many months devoted his time to this work. In recognition of this he was honored by being presented a plaque for outstanding community service by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Curtis was a member of Epworth Methodist church and his fraternal affiliation was with

HANNEGAN NOT LIKELY TO BE OUSTED SOON

Democratic Demands for His Removal Given Truman Cold Shoulder.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—Scattered Democratic demands that National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan be fired from the party helm and the cabinet reportedly finds President Truman cold today toward any major changes in his official family.

While there are indications that some shifts may be made soon in his personal White House staff, the President is said to be standing behind Hannegan despite the searing Democratic defeat in Tuesday's congressional elections.

There has been talk on Capitol Hill that for reasons of health, Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, soon may ask to be relieved of his duties. It was emphasized, however, that if any such change is made, it will have nothing to do with the election results.

But as a direct result of the Democratic-to-Republican shift in congressional control, senate secretary Leslie L. Biffle is expected by some friends to transfer his activities from Capitol Hill to the White House staff after the first of the year.

The senate elects its own secretary at the beginning of each new congress, and Biffle, an Arkansas Democrat and close friend of Mr. Truman, appears unlikely to survive a Republican drive for the office despite his personal popularity.

In line for the post is Carl A. Loeffler, veteran legislative employe who began as a page boy and has served for years as secretary of the Republican minority.

Hannegan went to the hospital here yesterday for a physical checkup. Hence there was no immediate reaction from him to an assertion by Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (D-Mo, that Mr. Truman ought to dismiss his old friend and political ally from his job as postmaster general.

Slaughter, defeated in the primary after Mr. Truman had endorsed his Democratic opponent, Enos A. Axtell, asserted in a statement at Kansas City that Hannegan was to blame for the party's defeat Tuesday and ought to resign as national chairman and Missouri national committeeman.

Crump Asks Ouster

Previously Ed Crump, head of the Shelby county (Tenn.) Democratic organization, had said Hannegan ought to be ousted.

While friends said Hannegan may want to be relieved of the party post at the national committee's regular meeting in January, they added that he wants to retain his cabinet job and expressed confidence Mr. Truman intends to keep him there.

Democrats in congress, however, faced some changes against which they had no recourse, with the Republicans taking over both houses.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.) reportedly is ready to step down to head the new minority party of that chamber.

But House Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) has said he doesn't want to go back to the job of minority leader, which thus seems likely to fall to Rep. John W. McCormack (Mass.), who has been serving as majority leader.

ADVERTISING NAMED AS STABILIZATION METHOD

Publisher Calls It Best Hope for Balanced Economy.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8—Advertising was described today by C. B. Larrabee, publisher of Printer's Ink, as a means for helping to stabilize the nation's economy.

Larrabee, speaking at the Ohio State university advertising copy clinic, asserted "the one best hope for a stable economy is sales and plenty of them."

Every device must be used to develop high sales volume, he said, and added:

"To me advertising heads any list of such devices."

More than 150 advertising men from newspapers, radio stations, agencies, department stores and other business firms attended the first session of the two-day meeting.

Roy D. Moore of Canton, president of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., and president of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers association, will speak tonight.

U. S. Warships To Call At Greek And Turkish Ports Next Month

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—United States warships, making their third excursion into the politically troubled waters of the eastern Mediterranean, will visit both Turkish and Greek ports in the next few weeks.

The Navy announced today that "arrangements have been completed by the state department for U. S. naval forces now in the Mediterranean, or enroute there, to make visits to various ports incident to training exercises during the latter part of November and early December."

It was learned that both Secretary of State Byrnes and Under Secretary Dean Acheson had okayed the cruise.

Mum or Reversal

State department officials, however, could shed no light on why they gave the warships the green light to make calls virtually in the back yard of the Soviet Union only a few days after the department had asked the Army to postpone a projected round the world flight by a fleet of B-29 Superfort bombers.

Although it never has been officially acknowledged that the state department caused postponement of the B-29 venture, officials close to Byrnes said he was opposed to the flight at this time, partially because he was afraid it might be interpreted by Russia and other nations as "sword rattling."

Today's Navy announcement said the 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Randolph, the light cruiser Fargo and the destroyer Perry will put in at the Turkish ports of Izmir and Marmaras. Izmir, at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, was formerly named Smyrna. From the Turkish harbors the ships will go to Beirut, Labanon, and then turn northwestward to visit Piraeus, Greece.

Hold International Attention

Both Turkey and Greece currently hold international attention—Turkey because of her Dardanelles dispute with Russia and Greece because of the small scale civil war in her northern area near the Yugoslavian border.

Although the announcement referred to the visits as being "incident to training exercises," the Sept. 30 statement by Secretary of Navy Forrestal was recalled.

At that time, the cabinet member said United States Navy forces were being maintained in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean for two specific purposes: to support Allied occupation forces and the Allied military government; to "protect United States interests and to support United States policies in the area."

To Make Other Calls

In addition to the calls at Turkish, Greek and Lebanonese ports, the American naval craft also will put in at other Middle East harbors.

The light cruiser Huntington and destroyer Richh will visit Alexandria, Egypt, and the light cruiser Houston and destroyer Warrington will call at Port Said, northern terminus of the Suez canal. The destroyers Noa and R. L. Wilson are scheduled for visits to the island of Crete and the destroyers Corry and Holder to Jidda, Saudi Arabian port.

Under a rotation program, the Navy is maintaining a fairly static number of ships in the Mediterranean. At various times, Some of the heavyweights of the American Navy have been in those waters including the 45,000 ton carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt and the super battleship Missouri.

CHIANG ORDERS CEASE FIRING

Government Troops Halt in Last Minute Effort To Bring Reds Into Parley.

By The Associated Press

NANKING, Nov. 8—Chiang Kai-shek today ordered all government troops to cease fire in a last minute effort to win Communist attendance at Tuesday's scheduled opening of the national assembly.

The order came at the height of almost uninterrupted, year-long government successes on China's far flung civil war battlefields and appeared to represent a major concession by Chiang.

There was no quick comment from the Communists who, despite repeated military losses, stubbornly had declined to negotiate a truce except on their own terms: restoration of all territory seized by the government since the quickly aborted January truce, and recognition of political agreements reached early in the year through General Marshall's mediation.

Chiang's order followed by only a few hours a two-day series of conferences with Marshall and U. S. Ambassador Stuart.

The Communists steadfastly had refused to send their delegates to the national assembly, which is charged with revising and liberalizing China's constitution, unless their terms for peace first were met. China's minor parties, including the Democratic League and the Youth Party, also refused to participate in the assembly while the nation was torn internally.

There was no hint as to what Marshall and Stuart may have said to induce Chiang to send his truce order to all government armies.

It was issued as Chiang's troops had crushed Communist opposition in much of China and found them victoriously encircling Russian occupied Dairen, fighting bitterly to capture Chefoo and Shantung province and approaching Antung on the Manchurian-Korean border.

There was a last minute effort to insure all party representation at the assembly and came after weeks of hopeless deadlock as the Communists refused to negotiate on the government's terms.

The truce order followed a prolonged meeting at noon of national assembly delegates. Chiang addressed them briefly.

The independent newspaper, Hsin Min Pao, said the truce order "is entirely in accord with the government's desire for peace, not a result of any demands by any delegates."

Sweeper Company Says No Price Hike Intended

By The Associated Press

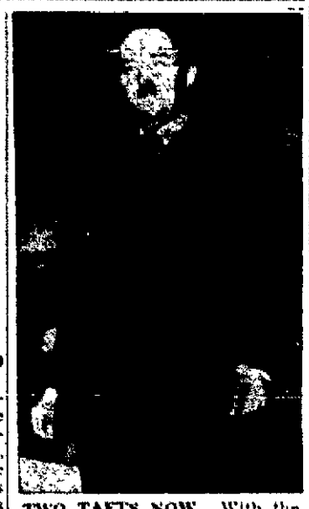
CANTON, O., Nov. 8—Despite lifting of OPA price controls on vacuum cleaners Wednesday, officials of the Hoover Co., north Canton electric sweeper firm, announced today that they did not intend to increase current established prices for Hoover products.

Although the firm now is producing cleaners at a more rapid pace than the pre-war production rate, officials said they were "making every effort to increase production to supply the demand that exists for our products."

GEN. CLAY COMES HOME

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 8—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy American military governor for Germany, departed by plane for the United States today, accompanied by his political adviser, Robert Murphy. They plan to confer with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes on various German problems.



TWO TAFTS NOW. With the election of Kingsley A. Taft (R), above, to serve the last days of the senate seat lost by James Huffman, Ohio becomes the first state in the nation to have two senators of the same name serving the same state at the same time. Taft, a native of Cleveland, is a fifth cousin of Ohio's senior senator, Robert A. Taft. The new senator is pictured above as he checked in on Capitol Hill to take over his official duties.

Today, however, the question arose as to whether his term might not start until Dec. 15. The attorney general's office ruled that retiring Senator James W. Huffman's term would not expire until that date.

Polygamously Wed German Girl Caught Before Trip To U. S.

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, Nov. 8—Married polygamously to an American soldier and engaged to another, an 18-year-old German girl was sent to a woman's prison today for five years after coming close to reaching the United States as a GI bride.

The thrice-married girl, Ingeborg Achterberzer, was convicted by a U. S. military government court on charges resulting from her polygamous marriage to Pfc. Walter Bollenbough of Ohio City, Ohio.

Testimony at the trial brought out that the girl's marital career included three husbands and a change to Greek citizenship that almost won her passage to America.

The girl, it was testified, married a German in Berlin in 1944 and then married a Greek displaced person in the summer of 1945 without obtaining a divorce.

With her supposed Greek citizenship, she deserted her second husband and, with a bribe of cigarets, talked two German officials at Erlanger into marrying her to Bollenbough.

When Bollenbough returned to the United States, a military government announcement said, the girl claimed an identification card as an American "dependent" and got an army billet.

She then became engaged to another American soldier and, at the same time, applied and received official army orders authorizing her transportation to the United States. Her matrimonial career came to an end when army agents uncovered her activities as she was getting set to leave for the United States.

FINAL ACTION AWAITS OKAY FROM TRUMAN

Expected Move To Strip Curbs from All But Rent, Sugar, Syrups and Rice.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — The administration is getting ready to junk virtually all remaining price and wage controls — and it was learned today that OPA Chief Paul Porter plans to resign.

Only a final okay from President Truman was reported necessary to strip away all remaining price ceilings except those on rents, sugar, syrups and rice.

Many other wartime controls such as those on wages are expected to disappear at the same time.

Friends of Porter said he hoped the White House decision "could come quickly."

They added that as soon as it was announced Porter would go to the White House for a private talk with President Truman and offer his resignation.

Succeeded Bowles

Porter was drafted from the chairmanship of the federal communications commission early in the war to serve in a number of key agencies. He took over the OPA when former administrator Chester Bowles resigned last June.

Friends of Porter said he had been pressing for a clarification of White House policy on remaining price lids ever since President Truman yanked the ceiling from meats and livestock on Oct. 14.

One high government official told a reporter that Mr. Truman would make a final ruling in a day or so and probably announce it next week.

The consensus among agency officials who have been conferring the last two weeks with Reconversion Director John R. Steelman is that the time has come to junk nearly all of the control program, except for rents and sugar.

Some Opposition

There is some opposition to this, notably on the part of Housing Administrator Wilson W. Wyatt, but he and others who have favored a go-slow policy reportedly are prepared for a decision in the other direction.

What to do about price ceilings on building materials has been one of the problems delaying the announcement of OPA's master decontrol list. Wyatt, as one official put it, is "very much worried" that elimination of ceilings in this field might make it necessary to abandon the present $10,000 price lid on new homes for veterans.

Mr. Truman will have the final say on this matter. His decision also is tied up with the question whether controls are to be maintained on such basic commodities as coal, rubber, steel and other metals.

Officials inclined toward freeing these items are agreed such a move would foreclose the possibility of keeping the lid on building materials.

Porter Changes Stand

Supporting indications that the decontrol announcement will be sweeping and sudden was word from one official familiar with the discussions that OPA Boss Paul Porter himself has abandoned his stand in favor of keeping most controls until supply and demand are in balance. Porter is understood to have swung around to the view that the quicker all controls are lifted, the better.

"We have reached a point where we have to make a grand sweep," said the official, who disclosed that the matter now is up to Mr. Truman.

"The reason is that industries still under control naturally are going to hold back as long as they know that in any event removal of ceilings is not far off.

"This piecemeal removal of controls just won't do any more. We have got to act quickly."

Cancels Wage Control

Elimination of price ceilings in any industry automatically cancels wage controls.

If decontrol goes as far as some officials expect only rents, sugar, syrup and rice may stay under

U. S. MOVES TO ADMIT 5 TO UN

Delegation Ready To Reopen Question of Previously Rejected Nations.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 8—The United States delegation decided today to throw its weight behind a proposal asking the United Nations security council to reconsider the five countries rejected for UN membership and to oppose "coercive action" against Franco Spain in the assembly.

There was no immediate indication what the United States position would be should the council reopen the membership question, but on the basis of past arguments it was believed American Delegate Herschel V. Johnson would call for the blanket entry of all five, including Soviet-sponsored Albania and Outer Mongolia.

If under that situation Russia should persist in vetoing the admission of Portugal, Ireland and Trans-Jordan, it was anticipated that the United States then would return to its policy of voting against Albania and outer Mongolia individually. Both those countries failed to muster the necessary seven of the eleven council votes in the initial discussions.

On the Spanish question the United States delegation merely decided to adhere to its stand for condemnation of the Madrid government but in opposition to any action such as a worldwide break in relations.

CHINESE REDS FREE KIDNAPED MARINES

By The Associated Press

PEIPING, Nov. 8—Two U. S. Marines, kidnaped 18 days ago by Chinese Communists near Tangku, were released unharmed and returned to Tientsin last night, the corps announced today.

They are T/Sgt. Jack Lane, Hardin, Mont., and T/Sgt. R. C. Fellows, Freeville, N. Y., captured Oct. 20 while duck hunting. Neither had shaved nor bathed in the 18 days.

"Outside of the first day, our captors gave us very good treatment," Lane said. "They merely threatened us the first day. They were irritated because one of their patrols which tried to disarm another hunting party had been shot upon."

The two Leathernecks were kept on the move throughout the 18 days although they never were taken more than 25 miles from Hsinhow, where they were captured. They were moved from village to village on donkeys or in small boats on canals.

The Marines said they were informed Saturday they would be released. When they were freed yesterday noon, they were given a carton of cigarets, 10,000 Chinese dollars ($2.50) and a paper "intended to explain our absence and loss of property" to superior officers.

They were directed to a railway station, where they boarded a freight train for Tientsin.

O.W.U. USING NEW ENROLLMENT PLAN

Next Year's Freshman Girls To Be Listed by January.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 8—Ohio Wesleyan University's freshman class of girls for next year will be filled by the end of the present year, Registrar Allen C. Conger has announced. The university's present level of 2,100 students will be maintained for the 1947-48 school year, according to present indication.

Under Ohio Wesleyan's admission plan, selection of next year's freshman girls will be completed by January, 1947 so that applicants not accepted may seek admittance elsewhere. The new class of freshmen will be selected after the enrollment of all former students desiring to return after military service, Conger said.

Ohio Wesleyan's enlarged selection and pre-college orientation program was placed in operation to better handle the problems of new admissions in the present education emergency. The program is designed to select high school students on the basis of how well it is believed they will adjust to Ohio Wesleyan's liberal arts type education. Included in the selection plan is a counseling program developed by the university's staff of new student counselors.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Tetanus

Lockjaw or tetanus is one of the most dreaded of all diseases and justly so. It produces such symptoms as high fever, nervous excitement, muscular spasm, convulsion and, often, death.

Our grandmothers believed that it resulted from stepping on rusty nails, but we know today that rust has nothing to do with it. As a matter of fact, it is caused by a germ called the tetanus bacillus, which lives in soil; hence, nails that have been lying around on the ground long enough to become rusty are quite likely to have picked up a deadly dose of this soil-inhabiting germ. War wounds are especially likely to become infected with it, as are those caused by fire-crackers.

So far, our best protection against lockjaw is in two substances — tetanus antitoxin and tetanus toxoid. Both are made from tetanus germ poison. Toxoid is so treated that it will not harm the human body but will stimulate the blood to set up its own defenses against the germ in the form of antbodies. Antitoxin is made by repeatedly injecting toxin into a horse. Later on the horse is bled. The blood serum in the horse now contains tetanus antitoxin. Anyone who has received a wound which could possibly be contaminated with tetanus germs should be given an injection of tetanus antitoxin into a muscle as soon as possible.

The tetanus toxoid, on the other hand, is used long before the event of an accident—that is, as a long-term precautionary measure. To be effective, it must be used months before injury. Thus, our soldiers are given protective shots of toxoid, not on the eve of battle, but early in their training period. The same thing should be done for children before they start running around outdoors during the summer.

The very latest news from the research field gives hope that some day we may have a quicker and even more sure way of dealing with tetanus, so that those who develop it can be cured within a few days.

Just recently, a new chemical, produced by a germ found in manure, has been found which will neutralize or destroy the poison of the tetanus bacillus. Known as clavacin, it must be tried out further before its full value can be established; in any case, it is not freely available at present. If it proves out, it will give us a double-barreled gun with which to attack the tetanus germ. For penicillin, which works by checking the growth of germs, has already proved helpful in the treatment of tetanus when given in large doses.

Still other substances from other germs have also been developed which give promise of being helpful in the treatment of a number of diseases such as typhoid fever, dysentery, and cholera.

Scientists are constantly at work attempting to find new substances which will check the growth of germs and yet not be harmful to the human body. Some germs, it seems, develop resistance to penicillin, streptomycin and other substances which are at present available, but it is hoped that some of the newer preparations such as clavacin, may be ready for use in such instances.

Mausoleum Association Meet Wednesday

Election of officers for the new year was conducted when the Marion Mausoleum Association met Wednesday night in the court room at the courthouse.

... students of Pleasant ... representing various ... have entered the local ... They are, together with ... which they have ... to present, Marilyn ... son, "A Time for Decision;" ... Grace, "A Time of Crisis," ... Rasey, "So Must We," ... David Mayers, "A Com... Man's Fourfold;" and Vir... Zuspan, "So Must We."

A bronze medal will be awarded to the winner of this contest who will compete in a district contest at a later date. Gold medals will be awarded in the district contest and the winners from there will go to the state contest which will be held in Columbus during the pastor's convention the last week in January. The state prizes will be awarded as follows, first—$200 and four-year free tuition college scholarship, second—$100 and two-year scholarship, third—$50 and one-year scholarship, and three additional awards of $25 each.

The local contest is open to the public. Each of the contestant's material is memorized and is five minutes long. Miss Esther Williamson of the Pleasant Township High school did the coaching, and three outstanding citizens of Marion will act as judges. Their names, along with the winner, will be published the day following the contest.

The Prince of Peace Declamation contest is being offered in the state for the twenty-second time by the Ohio Council of Churches as a contribution toward the educational program of world peace. In the 21 previous contests, some 54,171 Ohio boys and girls have delivered peace messages before audiences aggregating more than 1,100,000. "The influence of this widespread discussion—on the young people themselves, on their families and on the other adult members of their churches and communities can hardly be estimated," Rev. H. M. McAdow, pastor of Wesley church, who is in charge declared.

Nevada Units Observe National Scout Week

Special to The Star

NEVADA—In observance of National Girl Scout week the Scouts of Nevada Troop 15, and Brownie Troop 16 played an active part.

The windows of Helen's beauty shop carried a display of equipment used. On Sunday the Scouts attended church in a body and on Monday evening they met with Mrs. Betty Diehl. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Mary Creger and Mrs. Virginia Smith was enrolled as a member. On Friday afternoon the Scouts and Brownies presented a program to the high school and guests. To climax the week a Hallowe'en party was held in the basement of the Lutheran church with games and refreshments. In the drive for funds during the week the sale of Christmas cards netted $40.

GULF OIL TO OPEN TEMPORARY STATION

Forerunner to New Super-Service Plant Here

Construction of a Gulf service station at the corner of East Church and South State street, across from the postoffice, has been proceeding and Gulf Oil officials here said the building may be completed by Nov. 15.

The small concrete block building is only temporary, it was emphasized, and construction of a $32,000, three-bay super-station will be commenced as soon as CPA approval can be obtained. Work on the permanent building may begin about the first of the year, officials estimated.

The permanent set-up will include four dual units, containing eight pumps. Three new-type pumps will be installed for the present.

A proprietor for the new station has not yet been chosen, but officials said it will be a local man.

PASTORS ASK LAUSCHE AID

Request Governor To Step Into Steubenville Row Over Vice, Graft.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov 8—A dozen Protestant pastors seeking authority to "smash the vice centers" in this Ohio river city of 40,000 decided today to appeal to Gov. Lausche for an investigation here

The ministers want to know who own the buildings where, they contend, gambling, slot machines, organized vice and policy rackets operate openly, Dr. Norman E Nygaard, their spokesman said

The decision to appeal to Lausche followed the appearance of eight of the ministers before city council meeting in special session last night to consider the group's request for police power to raid establishments

Referred to Committee

Council referred the question to Mayor George W. Floto, Safety Director Alfred Schaefer, City Solicitor William J Weinman and council's safety committee after the ministers agreed to operate as a "sledge hammer vice patrol" under the safety director.

Previously the pastors sought the right to work under two common pleas judges instead of city officials, if they chose, but City Solicitor Weinman said this would be contrary to the Ohio code

Following the council session, Safety Director Schaefer privately told a newsman he had no plans for appointing special police deputies. Mayor Floto said he would "welcome" conferences with the ministers "or any group of individuals seeking to aid enforcement of law"

From the council floor, Nygaard and other ministers asserted Steubenville police were "negligent and crooked" and the city administration shot with "graft"

Councilman John Montgomery replied that he understood five of the 12 ministers did not register as voters until the last possible day and that one of their number was not even a citizen of the United States

Another councilman, Arthur Gorman, declared "nothing is wrong with the police in Steubenville There has always been gambling and there always will be The city is no better and no worse than it was 25 years ago It's just been given a black eye by people who don't understand the situation"

Approximately 400 persons crowded in the council chamber, which seats only 100 From time to time there was applause as a minister or a council member spoke.

Prior to the meeting Calvin Cook, church member and head of a printing concern, urged "all straight-thinking and decent citizens" to form a citizens league to "give any kind of support the ministers need to clean up the city"

Cook asserted the league would "supply armed patrols, packing guns, if the ministers request them"

SAYS LABOR SEEKS INDUSTRIAL CONTROL

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O. Nov 8—Labor seeks to take over private industry, Robert Wason, president of the National Association of Manufacturers said last night

The former Ohioan, addressing a Toledo Chamber of Commerce meeting declared that "labor's super-government must be dissolved to restore freedom and equality to all Americans"

Wason applauded the outcome of Tuesday's election, but said it would not change the labor picture because "no Republican or Democratic politician will agree to restore equality to industry with labor until you fight"

"Labor fights to take over the industries you own and manage," he continued "Communists and fellow travelers fight to destroy the system that made America Only industry is numb, unwilling to rise and defend its rights

"In recent years labor has become a monopoly with the powers of a super-government It controls the administration that gave it birth and growth"

Ohioans Get Promise Of "Yuletide Cheer"

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov 8—Ohioans will be able to purchase ration-free "good" whisky as the Christmas season approaches, A J Balmert, assistant state liquor director, said today.

"I can't tell you what brands or how hat quantities the department will be able to release from the ration list," Balmert added But I am certain that we will be able to release some whisky"

Also under consideration, Balmert reported, is the purchase of odd lots of pre-war bourbon from the war assets corporation.

"I don't believe the department will purchase this whisky," he said, "because it is offered in so many brands and in such small quantities But it is under consideration"

Balmert asserted it was probable that increasing quantities of Scotch and Canadian whiskies would be available later this year.

3 Walkaways From Prison Recaptured

By The Associated Press

LONDON, O., Nov. 8—Three walkaways from the London prison farm—one of whom had been gone for nearly four years—have returned, Supt. W. F. Amrine said today.

Dow Burcnard, 35, formerly of Newark, who left the honor farm Dec. 28, 1942, was apprehended in Massilon, where he had been trailed by Newark police. The Newark police wanted him in connection with the theft and cashing on a check. He was sent to prison from Mt. Vernon, July 29, 1942 for one to three years for failure to support his children.

Lee Roy Hammer, 29, and John Caplinger, 35, both of Cincinnati, who walked away from the farm a week ago, were the others returned. Hammer, who was admitted to the penitentiary Jan. 27, 1942 to serve one to 15 years for burglary, was captured by a sheriff at Clayton, near St. Louis, Mo

Caplinger surrendered to Cincinnati police He entered prison from Hamilton county March 9, 1942, to serve 10 to 25 years for armed robbery.

520 Pieces Of Legislation To Die If Truman Loses Powers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—More than 520 pieces of wartime legislation would be tossed out the window by the promised Republican move to end President Truman's emergency powers.

But high Democratic officials voiced skepticism today that the new G.O.P.-controlled congress will take full step despite the post-election forecast of Rep. Clarence Brown, Republican national campaign director.

Those officials also cast doubt on whether the whole thing could be accomplished that simply. They contended that the expiration of some—but not all—of the war powers depend variously on:

1. The termination of the war.
2. The termination of hosilities.
3. The termination of the emergency.

Not one has yet been declared officially at an end.

Changes Nothing Important

One top administration aide, without going into the technical aspects of a repeal step, told a reporter:

"The resolution wouldn't change anything important becaues most of the business and industry controls are going out anyway. But it would knock out a lot of laws and thereby gum up the government badly until new legislation was passed."

This official said, for instance, that a large amount of treasury silver would have to be moved out of the atomic bomb plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and would "completely disrupt" the machinery there.

An inspection of the mass of statutes which would be affected by declaring the war, hostelities and the emergency at an end shows that among other things it would:

Require the recall of all troops except regular army men within six months unless other laws were passed.

End Free Cigarets

End the tax free shipment of cigarets to troops abroad and cut off their extra pay.

Prevent the deportation of undesirable enemy aliens and lift the ban on prositution near army camps.

Slash excise taxes to prewar rates in six months. Liquor levies, for instance, would drop from $9 to $6 a gallon, theater admissions from 20 to 10 per cent and night club taxes from 20 per cent to 5 per cent. The taxes on jewelry, furs, cosmetics and telephone repeal action. This covers such things as sugar rationing, priority controls, the government's purchase and control of rubber, tin and other strategic materials.

The prohibition against margin trading on the stock exchange would die within six months after a declaration of peace, because the credit controls are based on the first war powers act, which expires at that time.

Wage controls, which otherwise would run until June 30—unless the administration ends it sooner—would also terminate, as would the government's power to seize strike-threatened plants.

The federal reserve board already has announced it will eliminate most credit controls shortly, and the question of wage stabilization now is under government review.

"I'LL SCARE MY WIFE"—HE DID — Deciding to give his wife a scare, Herbert L. Wagner turned on all the gas jets in his Hynes, Calif., home and sat down to await his wife's momentary arrival home. While waiting, he decided to light a cigaret. Seconds later, the four walls of the house were blown out, the roof collapsed, and a badly burned prankster—Wagner—was carried from the wreckage, top. Treated for first, second and third degree burns from head to his waist, Wagner, right, again lights a cigaret.

Marysville Man Dies in Auto-Train Crash

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Nov. 8 — Isaac Clinton House, 71-year-old resident of this city, was instantly killed when the car which he was driving was hit by a Chicago to Columbus passenger train of the Pennsylvania railroad at the Paddy Canfield crossing near Woodstock about 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Surviving are two children: Mrs. Carl Shoemaker of Marysville, Russell House of Bowling Green; a brother, Judge H. D. House of Delaware; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Schwartz of Pharisburg, and Mrs. James Deavers of Zanesville.

Burial will be Saturday in Bokes Creek cemetery in charge of the Robinson-Brackney funeral home of Delaware.

Parked Cars Figure In Accidents Here

Two accidents involving parked cars were reported to police Thursday.

A car owned by Mrs. Beulah Ringle of 322 North Main street, parked on a grade in Holmes place behind Hotel Harding, coasted into another parked car owned by H. G. Kniffer of Lima. The former machine had been parked by Richard Lingrell of 540 Davids street, police said. Damage was slight.

Cars driven by Hazel M. Cecil, 54, of 409 West Columbia street and Joseph J. Pinkawa, 37, of Detroit collided on East Church near South State street at 6:20 p. m. Police said the Cecil car was leaving the curb when the accident happened.

Analyst Sees Snarls In UN Trusteeships

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Many observers at the United Nations meeting in San Francisco felt the loose language used in providing a trusteeship system for colonies and occupied territories was opening the way for much future uncertainty and trouble.

Now the proposal of the United States regarding the former Japanese-held islands in the Pacific brings the organization face to face with the problem.

While subscribing to the ideological requirements of the chapter about the welfare of the people and so forth, the U. S. proposal actually means complete control of the islands, even to the right to close them up as military areas as did the Japanese. Such rights may be necessary if the U. S. is to maintain positions from which to help enforce peace. Just how such a policy fits in with our attitude toward what other countries consider their strategic spheres is another matter.

But aside from all that, there are many debates ahead.

The whole trusteeship idea, as embodied in the charter, is still vague and without means of implementation.

There are two proposed categories of trusteeship—general, over primarily economic and non-military areas, and "strategic," the type the U. S. proposes in the Pacific. Just how the delineation is to be made is one of the yet-unsolved problems.

A trusteeship council is to consist of states which submit territories which are held as mandates from the old League of Nations, from World War II or other conquests, plus an equal number of states which do not, including any big five nation which does not.

The council will take its orders from the veto-armed security council with regard to strategic trusteeships, and from the general assembly on the others.

Agreements Necessary

Before there can be a trusteeship council there must be regional trusteeship agreements between the "states directly concerned," so that the identity and number of trustee states can be determined.

The first snag is expected to come when Russia proposes that all members of the Big Five be considered "directly concerned." That would make each of them a party to every regional trusteeship agreement. The Americans are reported desirous of avoiding that. But in a world where the major powers will be charged with preserving the peace, with enforcing the agreements, with participation both in the trusteeship council and in the security council which will be the final arbiter on "strategic" trusteeships, this is one Russian idea which can hardly be classified as merely contentious.

The whole trusteeship system is voluntary, designed to shift to the United Nations the troubles which such mandates as Palestine have caused, and to build up in the world the idea of international rather than unilateral action in all non-self governing areas. With no definitions to go by, with every territory-holder making its own reservations as to the amount of control it relinquishes to UN, it was perhaps inevitable that the birth of trusteeship should prove chaotic. It is.

A Majority for Moderation

IT IS easy to forget in the excitement of political campaigns that the real purpose of elections is to revitalize government, not political parties. They are only the tools with which government is made possible.

This aspect of politics now will get the attention it didn't get during the campaign. The election actually settled nothing, except the status of the defunct New Deal. It is now officially dead.

It was known that the Truman administration had lost the confidence of the people, who were openly questioning its ability to form a workable government. The election statistics indicate the extent of popular doubt.

The statistics cannot tell the whole story, even in their worst aspects, because they do not reflect the political discontent in the Solid South, which nevertheless sent seven Democratic senators and 100 Democratic representatives to the new congress. They do not reveal how many other Democrats are as strongly opposed to what has been happening in Washington as the most outspoken Republicans.

The strengthening of opposition to the Truman administration was inevitable. It took place within the two-party system at the expense of the Democratic party and other members of the New Deal coalition. Sixteen years ago, the same kind of a reaction occurred at the expense of the Republican party. In both cases, shifts in congress expressed popular unrest that had been a long time in the making.

The rising opposition to the Truman administration had kept it from commanding support in congress, where it had a numerical majority. It was evident in all straw votes. The outcome of the 1946 election was so clearly predictable that the voting was an anti-climax. Mr. Truman himself knew what was coming and stayed clear of a debacle he could not avert.

Bitter-enders will argue that millions of citizens who voted for the New Deal coalition in former years stayed home this year, but their claim is fatuous. Voters who stayed home stayed of their own free will. There was no coercion. The very fact they did stay home, moreover, was as pointed a rebuke to the candidates who needed their support as if they had gone to the polls to deliver it.

A serious question had been raised when the New Deal was riding high, as to whether any opposition could overthrow what seemed to be an unbeatable combination of the Solid South, the Democratic machine vote of the country's largest cities and the heaviest federal payroll in history. Tuesday's outcome answered that question. There was a return to free representative elections. The spend-and-spend-and-elect-and-elect formula was discredited. The "unbeatable combination" was tough, but it was beatable.

THE reorganization of government policies and practices which now must come about in response to majority will can take place within the framework of the Constitution. Hysterical suggestions for radical innovations are not to be taken seriously, short of a genuine crisis. Mr. Truman does not need to resign in favor of a Republican secretary of state, unless he feels incapable of finishing his term. All he needs to do is bear in mind that he is chief executive of the whole United States, which is the sum of all its parts.

Niether is there any reason for any minority, and particularly for the organized labor minority, to feel that it has lost any legitimate rights because there has been a change in the political atmosphere of Washington. This is especially important right now, because the organized labor minority is disposed to feel that any interference with any of its affairs is unjustified and malicious.

Many persons can be depended on to rub this sore spot in the hope of making trouble. They were part of what was repudiated at the polls Tuesday, but the majority has never restrained them before and won't now. The fact is that the place of minorities in a government of moderation is more secure than it is in a government of extremeism.

The majority of the American people want this kind of a government. There is no other reasonable interpretation to be made of the way they voted this week. It is the interpretation that Republicans are putting on their mandate to assume responsibility for congress. It is the way bona fide Democrats, who now must begin to reorganize their shattered party, are thinking. If it also is the way Mr. Truman is thinking, rehabilitation of confidence in government can be accomplished with a minimum of friction.

What has been repudiated is the weird confusion of an administration that was representing minorities, according to which one could apply the latest and strongest pressure to a vacillating chief executive. Mr. Truman could not be a government in himself. Without a majority to back him up he was helpless.

In the 80th congress he will have a majority for moderation, if he wants to become chief executive of all the nation. He can recover some of the prestige he has sacrificed to advisers who sharpened minority axes while he turned the grindstone and the people ran out of patience.

News Behind the News

Answers to Election Results Easy To Find.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—This is the easiest column I have ever written. You need not go very deep or very far to get the right answers to the election result.

The Republicans, who won, say it meant the country was practically unanimously tired of compromising with radicalism.

The Democrats, who lost, (or at least a leader who talked forthrightly) said the country was tired of standing in line for food.

My own personal opinion is that if the Republicans had not won this election there would have been no need to hold any more. The Democrats had committed every political blunder in the book on the legislative issues of the day. Indeed they tried to write a new book based on unreason. Here they had a congress about equally divided among Democrats the past two years, a congress which clearly did not like White House policies. The campaign efforts were not directed toward healing the breach in the party, but events widened it, one event in particular, the sending of Mr. Wallace, the commerce secretary, into New York to a CIO-PAC meeting with a foreign policy different from the administration's own policy. That very administration foreign policy was being ardently maintained practically alone by State Secretary Byrnes in Paris against the bitterest Russian opposition at that very moment—an opposition so bitter that Byrnes had to send for Republican Senator Vandenberg to back him up, along with the Democratic senate Chairman Connally of the foreign relations committee.

That was the break of the campaign. Yet it merely exposed for all to see the basic fault of the campaign of becoming involved with that element. Such involvement could not possibly lead to anything else but a break like that because you simply cannot run on one ticket at home, or in certain parts of your home, and another ticket internationally before the world when the front pages are practically absorbed for weeks and months before election with news of Russia's vetoing of the peace.

If that made sense to anyone, it certainly did not to the preponderant numbers of the American people.

When you add to that, a wholly unsatisfactory domestic situation which people not only saw but felt individually in their daily lives—such things as the conflict over food, wages, prices, unions—the people quite plainly said they wanted no more of it. No mind reader is necessary to figure that out.

As a matter of fact you read here last Oct. 11, nearly a month before election, a prediction which afterward proved popular, and was made subsequently by many (although I believe by no one publicly at that time) namely: The Republicans privately believed they would win more than they claimed; that they could win a sweep of the country if the unions failed to back the Democrats at the polls; and my personal prediction that the minimum Republican majority in the house would be 16 or 17 seats or more, and come within 1 or 2 seats of capturing the senate or more, depending on the scope of the union split.

No Hedging

Talk was later started generally that there had been a swing to the Democrats after decontrol of OPA brought out the food, but you will notice there was no change or hedging of the original prediction in this column. It was merely repeated to you the Friday before election. Look it up, if you do not believe me.

An editor just last week denounced me for making "too many mistakes—even for a columnist." The election certainly was not one of them. As a matter of fact, I cannot find any mistake he is talking about. His excessively abusive personal attack was based on my belief that people should not be chased out of their homes to locate the UN at any certain spot, but that to do so would delay the peace organization from getting an early home because it would only start a long legal fight. The editor thought that was one of my "mistakes." If that was a mistake I am proud to bear it, because I wrote from the standpoint of the people, the human standpoint, against dispossession of people.

The only reason I mention it is because that is the same people's viewpoint from which I wrote the election prediction. Politicians please take notice.

Text for Today: The Shortage Thereof

There is a shortage of between three and four million school books, according to an estimate of the American Textbook Publishers Institute.

The nation's children, at last reports, were bearing up admirably under the hardship.

There are, of course, some instances in which the shortage is sorely notable. It was another generation which knew the shingle as an adequate substitute to reinforce the seat of learning when a paddling was in the offing.

In some instances, old texts are being utilized but without satisfaction. It is difficult to interest veterans of Saipan and Tarawa in a history which ends at San Juan Hill.

Literarily-inclined students find the shortage of geographies especially irksome. Now they've nothing behind which to hide their detective stories.

The current crop of moppets will grow up to reminisce fondly of the childhood sweetheart, whose books they would gladly have carried home ..had she but had any.

State Treasuries Full

Ohio Surplus Typical.

PRELIMINARY figures of the Census Bureau on receipts and expenditures of state governments for the fiscal year 1945 confirm the popular impression that state treasuries never were in better condition.

Revenues went up because of the war boom. Expenditures, however, went down because of inability to spend and money and contributions from the federal government.

Throughout the nation unexpended balances in state treasuries continued to grow, through most of the surplus was earmarked for activities to be undertaken as soon as materials were available.

State debts have been reduced steadily since 1940; the total at the end of the 1945 fiscal year was lowest since 1930. Ohio, with a constitutional limitation on its debt, was one of 12 states whose per capita debt was less than $3. The average of all states taxes and

Revenue sources for states vary widely, because some have income taxes, others have sales taxes and so on. But it is surprising to learn that the largest single source of revenue in the states generally was unemployment compensation, an average of 18½ per cent. In Ohio, it was 22 per cent.

States received 11 per cent of their revenue on the average from the federal government. Ohio's figure is 10 per cent. Charges and miscellaneous sources bring the average state's revenue outside of taxation up to 36 per cent. Ohio also had 36 per cent, from the same sources.

The other 64 per cent of state income is obtained from sales taxes, taxes on corporation income, beverages, property, motor vehicles, fuel, personal income, utilities an insurance companies, tobacco and death and gift taxes.

Highest per capital collections during the 1945 fiscal year were in Washington, California and New York, with $81, $71 and $67, respectively. Ohio's per capita collection of $40-55 placed it in the same group with Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Colorado, Arizona, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

State expenditures on the average were distributed as follows: debt retirement 4 per cent; interest 1½ per cent, capital outlay 4 per cent; aid to local units for schools, highways, welfare, etc. 31 per cent; contributions to trust funds and enterprises 22½ per cent; operational 37 per cent.

Ohio's expenditures were distributed as follows: Capital outlay 6 per cent; aid to local units 38 per cent; contributions 24 per cent; operational 32 per cent.

Quick Cure for Old Age

By The Associated Press

CENTRALIA, Ill.—Chief of Police O. T. Bounds directed traffic at the scene of a circus loading here and one motorist wound up in a ditch. The chief called upon the circus for a tractor—and the circus sent an elephant. Bounds said a stooped, old man with a

The Next Two Years

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — These words are written before the votes are counted, but not before a massive Republican triumph seemed to be assured. Once again control of congress will be in the hands of one party, while a president of another party nurses his frustrations in the White House. The measure of the probable results of this divided rule is to be found in an important decision of Thomas E. Dewey.

The cool-headed New York governor, who is nothing if not a practical politician, is actually relying on the mess in Washington to assist him in his campaign for the Republican nomination in 1948. He does not discuss his campaign strategy. Yet there is every indication that while he does not expect the confusion of the next two years to damage the chances of the Republican party as a whole, he anticipates that it will put a good many nicks and scars in the prestige of the Republican leaders directly concerned.

Of these, the Ohio chieftain, Senator Robert A. Taft, is sure to be conspicuous as the most powerful man in the senate. And if the Ohio crowd's plans succeed, Taft's political partner, Representative Clarence Brown, will play an almost equally important role as Republican leader of the house. As political organizers, the Ohio crowd already have the edge on Dewey and his New Yorkers. But as the most influential Republicans in congress, the Ohioans will have to walk very warily to avoid becoming targets of the inevitable national Washington mess. While this resentment against the inevitable happens to his rivals, Dewey proposes to remain calmly in Albany, ostentatiously sticking to his knitting as governor of New York.

Dewey Idea in 1944

No doubt Dewey feels he would not get very far in any effort to bring order out of chaos. After the 1944 election, he tried to get a secret meeting of the most eminent Republicans to agree to a coherent party program, which was dismissed by Senator Taft with the remark that he had "never seen anything so silly." But it must be added that thing experience bulks much less large in Dewey's decision than do the obvious requirements of his campaign strategy, and the obvious benefits to him which divided rule in Washington is likely to produce.

Dewey's campaign strategy is naturally interesting in itself. Yet in the present instance, the assessment of the future on which it is based has an even greater significance — as proof of the resigned acceptance of something like a major constitutional crisis which has been common among most thinking political leaders for many weeks.

Everybody expects it, but nobody thus far has done much about it, with the exception of Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and one or two of President Truman's wiser advisers. The young Arkansas senator has taken the bolder course. He has caused to be drafted a Constitutional amendment giving either the president or the congress the power to call a general election, including presidency, senate and house, whenever the country plainly repudiates the administration in power. The draft is still incomplete, and it is understood that Fulbright is now working on his amendment with Thomas Finletter, whose "Can Representative Government Do the Job" was a little noticed but extremely significant study of the defects in the American constitutional machinery.

As for the President's advisers, they are seeking to devise some system by which the unhappy Harry S. Truman can formally share responsibility for making policy with the Republicans who will control the congress. Logically, of course, the President should hand on the poisoned chalice of his office, finding some means to select a Republican who he could appoint secretary of state and then elevate to the presidency by his own resignation. Since logic and what is politically possible are not always entirely in accord, this expedient is rather naturally not being considered. But other ideas of many kinds are being played with.

One such is for the President to write identical letters to the Republican leader of the senate, Walter White, and to the Republican representative selected as leader of the house, pointing out the danger of the present situation and asking their aid. Specifically these letters, if written, will propose the appointment of special joint policy committees in certain fields, such as foreign affairs, national defense, taxation and the budget, where excessive partisan conflict could do lasting harm. The Republican members of each committee would be chosen by the Republicans of the house and senate; the Democratic members would represent both the congressional Democrats and the appropriate administrative departments. The purpose of the committees would be to lay down agreed national policy.

Even this, however, may be thought to be going too far; and the President is not unlikely to prefer the weaker expedient favored by his equally unhappy predecessor, Herbert Hoover. In this case, he will ask the appointment of committees of the Republican leadership to confer with him on major problems when the need arises. This would certainly get nowhere. Indeed the worst kind of mess can hardly be avoided by any means whatever.

"A guy'd think they knew about the meat shortage—look how high they're flying!"

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

England Is Back to Normal

THINGS are returning to normal in England faster than we thought. Jewel robberies now considered important enough to be announced among life's major annoyances.

• • •

Scotland Yard, cat burglars, palace jobs and international rings and super jool crim nals are back in the British headlines. The news that Londoners who survived the blitz are now disturbed by little things like loss of the family gems is cheering. Things must be looking up.

• • •

It is close to a decade since a Britisher on the home grounds felt like even making a complaint if he got home and found nothing worse had happened than the ransacking of a dressing table.

• • •

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor come right out and admit a loss of $80,000 worth of jewels. It is only now that they would admit it makes any difference.

• • •

Scotland Yard is not after the jewel robbers but we think the thieves are doing the police a favor. They are flashing the glad news that the war is well into the background and that once again some of the worst things that can happen to you can be endured without a bomb shelter.

• • •

It shows that England is really recovering faster than some of her allies. No jewelry raid has been announced in France yet. Russia has been bothered by a car burglar. Even in America we are not yet in the big stolen-string-of-pearls stage of recovery, but caught somewhere between the Miss America renewals and the price of Christmas liquor.

• • •

It's nice to have Scotland Yard back. It seems such a long time since it was to be found anywhere except on radio programs.

• • •

With Scotland Yard intact and "Mister Inspector" on the job once more, the routine of happier years returns. We should not have to wait long now before hearing about the tailor who buried eight wives in an old well in Sussex and the professor of chemistry who amuses himself by experiments with arsenic on housemaids.

• • •

But one thing disturbs Americans. We have supposed the British were having as much trouble eating as we are. Yet the main objective on the crime wave there is a ruby, not a lambchop; an emerald, not a hamburger. How come?

Laugh of the Year On The Radio: Ex-mayor LaGuardia's "I don't like politicians. They're no good."

The horse show, always one of the favorite New York shindigs, is on and we will be there most of the week observing the horses that at no time during the meat crisis, had to do any worrying. Our interest will be centered on getting a line on the type of steed that would look best drawing the authentic 1898 sleigh we bought at auction last spring.

Nonsense. At present prices a man can't even buy two small day cruisers for that money.

We hear that a guest at the Waldorf phoned angrily to the desk, "I can't get a wink of sleep; those Big Four boys haven't STOPPED talking."

Well, well, and of all things! Sally Rand has been arrested out in Los Angeles for giving her fan and bubble dance. The feeling is that if a lady wants to dress and behave like that she should go to the beaches, theater and house party like anybody else.

Babushka!

By TRUMAN TWILL

Up north where men are men, and they put on stocking caps when the temperature goes down to keep their ears warm. Or they put on felt caps with ear warmers, or fur hats with the fur facing both ways.

But in no case does a man up north where men are men go skittering over the landscape in wintertime wearing the skimmer he wears all summer. The way the men up north figure a thing like that is that a man's ears are to hear with, not suffer from, and if he loses one through frostbite he can't grow another.

This position is in contrast with that taken by men farther south who seem to believe it is up to them if the temperature goes down and that everything will be all right if a man puts his ears on their own. Farther south, where men are not necessarily men but may be women in slacks, there is an attitude that an ear is to be seen not to be heard with, and if it can't withstand a jolt of frostbite it isn't worth having.

For years this has been something to write about at the beginning of another winter. It has been suggested that men, particularly men whose ears are sensitive, take up stocking caps, felt caps, or fur hats. It even has been suggested that men might make themselves as comfortable as their offspring have become the last few winters, by taking up the fad of bright-colored ear warmers. But something better has suggested itself.

Babushkas! Those things the girls have been wearing for the last five years. The all-purpose head covering. Sheds rain and repels dirt and grit. Keeps snow from sifting between collar clothing and the neck. Holds the hair in place in a high wind.

Can be folded like a scarf and tucked away in a pocket. Protects the ears. Frames the face. Extra fine for cases of fresh haircuts and shampoos. Can be arranged to hide a dirty neck. Obtainable in many colors. Throw it in the family washing. Low original cost, low upkeep.

Makes an ideal dust rag when discarded. May be worn any place, any time. No longer attracts attention. Could be borrowed from fellow members of the household. Interchangeability made more feasible by fact size is not important. The perfect answer to every man's problem of how to keep his ears warm in winter.

Also obtainable in mink, mink-dyed muskrat, rabbit, squirrel-dyed coney, seal, seal-dyed rat, rat-dyed skunk, skunk-dyed pony, pony-dyed chinchilla, marmoset, alley cat, buffalo, mole and mole-dyed mink.

No man needs to suffer from cold ears again. What is good for 50,000,000 women is good enough for the few hundred thousand men whose winters are just one case of tinkling ear lobes after another. What can a man lose but his dignity and who cares.

Come, fellow sufferers! Excelsior! Eeyow! Babushka!

U. S. Women Lucky with Husbands, Boyle Says

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Lady, if you went to the matrimonial mart and fear you brought back a case of talking hamburger instead of man, don't be too hard on your grease-ball. You may feel some just- that you got a bad bar- by Amer- standards. Consider the masculine lum- ber that some of your sisters around the world have to put up with—and, lady, be solaced.

My wife, who loves to read—and sometimes rewrite — over my shoulder, has just said, "Phhhhhh—some consolation for a loving hubby may lack a Hollywood profile, kick the dog occasionally, and file only a one-page income tax return, but at least he is still a more useful piece of furniture to have around than the celebrated lovers of other lands.

Let's see what Mama has to put up with abroad:

British wives complain their husbands are sluggish, inattentive and center their social life around the bar board in their favorite pub.

Others don't live at 'ome—'e lives at the pub," they wail.

And the good man's "take home" pay, as John L. Lewis calls it—is hard to begin with and often ends up on the back of a slow race-horse instead of in the cupboard.

Frenchman Buoyant

The Frenchman is buoyant as a bubble, loves his children, but is harder to get household money from than a pay telephone. He often has a wandering eye, too, and if he catches a few extra francs he spends them on another dame—the Woolworth Casanova.

German fraus are short-circuiting their ex-supermen by the thousands via the divorce courts. Fritz made a good soldier, but now he wants to loaf and brood and live off what Mama can cadge by working for the Americans. Nix mitt Fritz!

Life is never dull in Italy for women. Not unless you'd find it dull to do all the housework and half the farmwork. One improvement: there isn't any more overtime trying to collect a Mussolini bambino bonus.

Discount Arab Sheiks

Let's see if Africa is any more of a married woman's paradise. Well, right off you can discount the sheiks you've heard so much about. They aren't so romantic on their home sands. They shut you up in a big white gown. You feel like a bedpillow and look like a walking fog. You have to peer out at life through peepholes in the fabric. The peepholes don't even have window wipers.

Would you rather marry into the exclusive tribal set in central Africa? No water bills, true, no clothes problem, no trouble keeping up with the Joneses. But could you give your heart to the kind of man who comes back dragging a dead lion when you simply asked for something to flavor the evening stew?

Suppose you'd yielded to a Moslem in India. You couldn't enter your canvas chateau with liquor on your breath after an afternoon out with the girls. Mohammed said "no" to cocktails before the W.C.T.U. even endorsed water. Prefer to try a Hindu then? Okay, lady, but simultaneously say goodbye to meat and eggs. You may have loved beefsteak—now you would have to worship the whole live cow. Because lo, your poor Indian, is strictly from vegetarian.

You wouldn't like it any better in Japan. If the crops fail, hubby might peddle your daughter to a geisha house to keep the rice bowl full. Anyway Japanese men hiss when they talk and sound like a paddleboat; when they assault the soup course.

Married life in China has its rough spots, too. You become slave to your mother-in-law, and unless you rate as the number one wife you might as well be playing shortstop for the Athletics. And, of course, you knew Chinese gentlemen pick their teeth in public?

Well, that's the field, lady. That hamsprung, hen-badgered American dream boy you're saddled with may leave a lot to the imagination, but he's one Romeo that lays it on the line on payday. And if you need a new thrill he'll stay home and mind the kid while you waltz out to the movies and kick up your pulsebeat over a flicker gigolo.

LUNCHEON was followed by bridge at the weekly ladies day party yesterday at the Marion Country Club. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Gerhart, Mrs. Thomas H. Sullenberger, Mrs. Preston T. Merchant and Mrs. H. B. Forney. The group will meet next Thursday for luncheon and bridge.

IN KEEPING with plans of the local and state federation of women's clubs to develop an art program some time during the year, members of the Fortnightly Study club spent last evening to center their interest on that subject. Hostess for the evening was Mrs. James Ritzler who entertained at her home at 382 Mansfield avenue. The program included a paper, "American Art and Artists" by Mrs. M. F. Bishop who traced the art of America from its beginning in Colonial days to the present time using as examples the work of outstanding artists and also displayed the work of some of the better known contemporary artists. "Highlights from Peter Hunt's Workshop" was presented by Mrs. Rolland Augenstein.

In a business session a contribution was made to the Marion Community Foundation's financial campaign and plans outlined for taking part in the federation's observance of National Book week next Tuesday. A sale of articles made by the blind of the state was in charge of the chairman, Mrs. Carl Huberman. During a social hour Mrs. Darrel Vermillion presided at the tea table. Mrs. E. F. Hawkins of Pittsburgh, Pa., the guest, and Mrs. William Hawkins of 197 Olney avenue, were hostesses. The club will meet next Thursday for luncheon and bridge.

PATRONESSES were guests when the Delphian club members entertained Tuesday evening at the Federation Home. Mrs. E. W. Warwick, president, presided and devotions by Mrs. Grover C. Snyder opened the meeting. A program included music by Tom Goering and Dana Nuetzel, pupils who played Grandy Hungarian Dances, and the speaker was O. H. Niemeyer of Prospect, Marion county game protector. Mr. Niemeyer showed films of wild life most of which were made in Marion county and gave a talk on the pictures. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. T. H. Sullenberger, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. T. J. Martin, patronesses chairman of the club. Tea was served by the social committee composed of Mrs. Frank Kette, chairman, Mrs. W. H. Lincoln, Mrs. Grover C. Snyder, Mrs. J. B. Hoagland, Mrs. H. L. Brocker, Mrs. W. G. Wheeler and Mrs. E. M. Ritter. Music was arranged by Mrs. G. L. Barto, chairman, and decorations were in charge of Mrs. Lee McQuate, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Lincoln, Mrs. J. J. Stafford and Mrs. Forest Flockenger.

Plans were made for a Christmas exchange to be held at the next meeting, Dec. 3, when the T.J.M. club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Mildred Walter of 187 Union street. High honors and the traveling award in cards went to Mrs. R. C. Brackett, and the consolation to Miss Ruth Drollinger. Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. George Clare and Mrs. C. G. Scott were guests, with the guest award going to Mrs. Scott. Miss Drollinger will be hostess for the next meeting at her home at 512 Pearl street.

Mrs. Harriet May entertained the Merry 12 club Wednesday evening at her home on North State street. Euchre was played with first prize going to Mrs. Margaret Lewis, second to Mrs. Violet Lust and the floating to Mrs. Jane Lingrel. The next meeting will be Nov. 19 with Mrs. Mary Mason of North State street.

Roll call was answered with humorous readings and plans were made for a Christmas party when the Wednesday club met with Mrs. Dora Kirk of Bear Green Camp. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. P. J. Thompson. The next meeting will be Dec. 4 with Mrs. J. G. McNamara on South Vine street.

Plans for a Christmas exchange were made when the J.A.C. club met in the home of Mrs. C. E. Frost at 147 Sonia Grand avenue Wednesday night. Prizes in euchre went to Mrs. Clinton Kinsey and Mrs. Harry Guerin, Mrs. Carl Pickett won hand award, and Mrs. Robert Scott was consoled. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Edwin Dix at 672 East Church street.

"Party Line," by Louise Baker, was reviewed by Mrs. Ferne West when the Literature Study club met Wednesday evening. Miss Irene Hunt was hostess for the meeting held at the Federation Home. Miss Perry Rauhauser who is in charge of an exhibit of books by Ohio authors at the federation's county unit of National Book week Tuesday, announced that to date some 60 books are available for display. The members were urged to contribute books for the sale to be held on that date.

Mrs. Mary Marbeck was hostess to the H. H. club Tuesday evening in the home of her sister, Mrs. Jean Hassel, on Sheridan road. It was decided to have a Christmas party at the Manor House Dec. 10. Accordion music was presented by Darlene Haycox and numbers on flutes were by Mrs. Eleanor Haycox and Miss Thera Haycox. Mrs. Arlene Dawson won a special prize.

The marriage of Miss Letha Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bailey of 200 Dix avenue, to Richard E. McCleod of Warren will take place Sunday, Nov. 24, in Central Christian church with the pastor, Rev. Eldred Johnston, officiating. The custom of open church will be observed for the ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening. Through an error, the date was incorrectly given as Nov. 4 in The Star Thursday night.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert L. Young of Magnetic Springs, and Harold Lawrence Young of Fulton were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. Frankie Bean and family in Galion. Harold Young and Mrs. Bean are children of Mr. and Mrs. Young.

Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Hunter of 292 East Center street left Thursday for a five-month vacation in Florida stopping enroute in Columbus Thursday night to visit relatives.

SINGER—Mara Nelson (above) of Dysart, Pa., back from a six-month USO-Camp Shows tour of the Pacific, will make her operatic debut in a soprano role in Milan.

Weddings

The Methodist church at Magnetic Springs was the scene of the marriage of Miss Madalyn Vance daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vance of Richwood, and Richard W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson of Ashley, Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was read at 4:30 o'clock by Rev. Hiram B. Holdredge.

For her wedding Miss Vance chose a light blue suit with white and wore brown accessories. Her corsage was white roses and she wore the bridegroom's gift, a gold chain necklace.

Miss Anna Vance, sister of the bride, who was her only attendant, wore a gray gabardine suit with brown accessories and a corsage of white camellias.

Jerrold M. Johnson, brother of the bridegroom was the best man.

The bride's mother was costumed in a dressmaker suit of mint green with black accessories and Mrs. Johnson wore a lime green dress and black accessories. Both wore corsages of Talisman roses.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a dinner for the immediate families at the Inor Hotel at Magnetic Springs and later the couple left on a wedding trip to Chicago. Upon their return they will make their home in Troy.

The bride was graduated from the Magnetic Springs High school and the Marion Business college and has been employed in the field office of the Social Security administration in Marion for the last two years. Mr. Johnson, a graduate of the Marengo High school and Elkin Watchmakers college, is employed at the H. E. Miles jewelry store in Troy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Angles of north of Marion are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Sara Joan, to Ezra Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bain Drake of 278 Leader street. Dr. C. E. Hersney, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church read the ceremony Friday afternoon, Nov. 1, at the parsonage on Homer street. The couple's cousin, Miss Donna Lou Walter of near Wharton, and Harold Van Gordon were the attendants.

For the ceremony read at 2:30 o'clock, the bride wore a soldier blue suit with brown accessories and a gardenia corsage. Miss Walter wore a fuchsia and black knit dress with black accessories, and a corsage of red rosebuds. The bride's gift to her attendant was a compact and the bridegroom gave his best man a billfold.

Upon their return from a wedding trip through the southern and mid-western states the couple will make their home on the Pleasant Hill road. The bridegroom is employed at the Baker hatchery.

FOOD COSTS UP 600 PER CENT, AFL SAYS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—The AFL, sy-passing government cost of living statistics, took a look at newspaper ads of today and before the war and reported food prices up 500 and 600 per cent.

The federation's weekly news service made a comparison of food ads in Washington newspapers of June 1939 and Nov. 1, 1946.

Checking on advertisements by the same stores, the AFL "researchers" found that rib roast of beef was being sold in the capital on June 22, 1939 for 25 cents a pound. It was 69 cents last Friday.

Here are some more comparisons:

Chuck roast, 15 to 17 cents per pound seven years ago now 45 cents; leg of lamb was 27, now 55 cents when procurable; pork roast was 11 cents, now listed at 63 cents a pound; hams, which sold seven years ago at 25 cents a pound now brings 49 cents; veal cutlets went from 33 to 69 cents.

Eggs were advertised in 1939 at two dozen for 35 cents, the report continued. Today a single dozen runs between 49 and 75 cents. Coffee, two pounds for 35 cents in 1939, now is offered at two pounds for 61 cents.

The federation said it found that sliced peaches which sold for two cans for 25 cents in 1939 now sell for 25 cents a can.

Then, in a burst of nostalgia, the AFL said it noted the following items in papers of 1939, but could find none now:

Pork and beans three one-pound cans at 10 cents; strip bacon, 17 cents a pound; shoulder veal roast, 13 cents a pound; frankfurters, 19 cents a pound; bologna, 17 cents; fresh cherries, 14 cents a pound.

Upper Sandusky Girl Weds Army Veteran

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Nov. 8—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sonnenberger of near Upper Sandusky are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy to Reeves L. Frith, son of Mrs. Sallie Frith of Richmond, Ky.

The ceremony was performed in St. Peters Evangelical Lutheran church at Lancaster, O., by Rev. Andrew Stenning, Oct. 25.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. James T. Gumsler of Lancaster, friends of the couple.

The bride graduated from the Salem High school and from Bliss college at Columbus. She has been employed as stenographer at the Deshler-Wallick hotel for several years.

Mr. Frith served in the Armed forces returning to Columbus several months ago. He is employed as a steam fitter.

TAX PLANS GO ON

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 8 — Springfield's proposed payroll income tax will not be affected by governor-elect Thomas J. Herbert's prediction that he would push state aid to local governments, says city manager Harold M. Fross. A Republican, Fross said "the city of Springfield can't live on promises."

There are now some 28,000 acres of cranberry bog in the United States.

TWO TAX LEVIES FAIL IN CRAWFORD CO. ELECTIONS

Official Tally Reveals Defeat at Chatfield and New Washington.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 8 — Official tally of votes cast Tuesday disclosed the loss of two tax levies in the county, the Chatfield township levy of two mills and the New Washington village two-mill levy. Both were for village operation. The Chatfield levy failed by six votes and the New Washington levy required 13 more votes for the necessary 65 per cent.

With the exception of the Bucyrus two-tenths mill recreational levy which also required a 65 per cent vote, all of the other levies in the county passed.

Program Presented By Morral Builders Class

"Thanksgiving Day and Events of November" was the theme of the program presented when the Home Builders class of Morral Methodist church met Tuesday evening with Mrs. E. L. Obee in Morral. A song, "America," scripture, the 100th Psalm by Mrs. Obee and a prayer by Rev. Obee opened the meeting. The birthday anniversaries of Mrs. W. W. Morral and Rev. Obee were honored.

The following numbers composed the program: a "Story of Livingston" by Mrs. Ethel Wise, a sketch of Martin Luther by Mrs. Cedric Sloat, readings by Mrs. Earle Sonnemaker, Mrs. Marion Richards, Mrs. Charles Dix, Miss Rebecca Myers, Miss Wilma Sloat, Mrs. O. T. Peerman, Mrs. Obee, Mrs. Mae Wood and Mrs. Morral, a song, "Into My Heart," by Miss Mary Ann Forney, with the story of the song given by Miss Ann Schmelzer, and a piano number by Miss Sonnemaker.

During the social hour a Bible quiz contest won by Rev. Obee and other contests by Mrs. F. Horner and Mrs. Nancy McIntire. A guessing box prepared by Mrs. McIntire was won by Mrs. Dix and another one, prepared by Miss Myers, went to Mrs. Sloat. Mrs. Obee and Mrs. Neal were in charge of the program.

Prospect Church Plans Armistice Sunday Rites

Armistice Sunday will be marked by the Methodist church at Prospect next Sunday morning with a special recognition service in honor of those whose names are represented on the service flag and are on the honor roll of the church. Parents, relatives and friends of these persons are invited to attend, it was announced. This will be the last Sunday under the pastorate of Rev. J. R. Wynd who will leave soon to take up the work of the Euclid Avenue church pastorate in Zanesville. Rev. Ralph W. Knoop, new pastor, who is coming to Prospect from the Mt. Healthy church in Cincinnati, will preach on the following Sunday.

FARMERS TOLD THEY MUST MECHANIZE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 8—The American farmer must mechanize his establishment to a far greater degree than in the past, E. T. Willing, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, said today.

Willing, of Chicago, told the National Farm Electrification conference in a prepared address the demand for farm products was the highest in history, and that the farmer was faced with 500,000 fewer farm workers than before the war.

"When other industries are faced with a similar condition," he said, "they find ways of mechanizing more and more production effort. So the farm electricity offers the greatest possibilities of saving time on all productive jobs."

He asserted that farmer acceptance of electricity has not kept pace with its acceptance in other industries, and urged the electrical manufacturers to give more attention to application of equipment to farm needs.

RECOUNT REQUESTED

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., Nov. 8—The board of elections has been asked to recount ballots in 13 precincts for a possible change in the outcome of the $4,290,000 city school construction proposal, which official count showed missed passage by 100 votes in Tuesday's election.

OFFICIAL COUNT MADE BY BOARD OF ELECTIONS

Only Minors Found, None Affect Results.

The smoke from Tuesday's election had cleared from the Marion county election board office today as deputy clerks there began rechecking poll books for errors, putting their records in order and accepting expense accounts from party candidates

Minor changes were being made in a few of the tabulations, the election board reported, but in no cases were there errors which would change the election of any candidate or issue

Deadline for filing expense accounts with the board of elections is Nov 15 First candidate to submit his expenditure list to the board was Harry V Mounts Republican, reelected Marion county auditor He listed his campaign expenses at $155 25

FOREIGN MINISTERS TALK TRIESTE ISSUE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov 8—The foreign ministers council struggled anew today to break its deadlock over the future of Trieste, an ancient Adriatic port, hoped that its solution would speed final peace settlement for the Axis satellites

Soviet Foreign Minister V M Molotov returned from a Washington conference with President Truman, but there was no indication that the Trieste problem was discussed in their meeting and none that Russia has changed her stand on the issue

Molotov has been out for a powerful Trieste general assembly to control the port city with only limited authority for the governo. Britain and the United States propose to give the governor the whip hand in administering Trieste under the supervision of the United Nations security council

Secretary of State Byrnes conferred yesterday with Yugoslav Foreign Minister Stanoje Simic and his envoy to Washington, Ambassador Sava Kosanovic, with the likelihood their discussion centered on Trieste There was nothing to indicate, however, that they discussed a reported offer by Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito to let Trieste go to Italy as an autonomous state in return for acquisition of Gorizia, 30 miles inland

Later in the day, Byrnes talked face-to-face with Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) for the first time since the GOP election sweep Even earlier Vandenberg had declared that Republican victory would bring no change in this nation's bi-partisan foreign policy

ceilings Clothing and textiles would be among items freed

These plans to get rid of controls have raised the question of whether to continue OPA to handle the small assignment that would remain

Porter is understood to have recommended that OPA and the civilian production administration be consolidated and merged with Steelman's office of war mobilization and reconversion

Steelman, it was learned does not favor this proposal He believes that OWMR should remain strictly a policy agency and that both OPA and CPA should continue to function as separate units for the time being Fewer Government Restrictions on Business Predicted.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Nov 8 — Herschel C Atkinson executive vice president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, said today a likely result of Tuesday's election would be production of more goods "with fewer governmental restrictions"

Addressing the chamber's 53d annual meeting, Atkinson said however that we must not make false assumptions as to the congress and as to the prospect for new legislation

"The election may be interpreted as a slap at the houses engaged in by some labor leaders but it is not a slap at labor itself Present congressmen and others elected will not be receptive to legislative ideas to restrict labor, but will be receptive to proposals to restore equality to the labor management bargaining table

"Business now seems likely to be given an opportunity to produce more goods for consumption with fewer governmental restrictions and interferences"

Noting predictions of a possible business slump Atkinson said "It is likely to come at the time the new congress will be trying to work out some legislative readjustments—an end to the war emergency, tax reductions and Wagner act revisions"

Included among members of the Marion Chamber of Commerce attending the state meeting yesterday and today were D A Howard Clarence Brown, Robert E O'Connell F L Cleveland, Karl Scheel L E Mickel H E Wessel Robert Sisler John W Davis, and J D Torrance

Erie Co. Vote Ruled As Clerical Error

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY O, Nov 8—Clerical errors at two polling places resulted in irregularities reported by Erie county's ballot counters election day, it was announced last night

The board of elections said workers in Precinct D of Sandusky's First ward and Precinct A of Huron township unintentionally had tabulated straight ballots twice

Results from the two precincts made no changes in the outcome of county office elections The certified total vote gave approval to a water extension bond issue and village school tax levy at Huron village

3 Cars, 2 Pedestrians in Cardington Mishap

An accident involving three automobiles and two pedestrians at a street intersection in Cardington Thursday night was reported by the state patrol No serious injuries or serious property damage resulted.

The accident happened at the junction of Routes 42 and 529 at 6 20 p. m. The patrol said cars driven by Paul Olguin, 38, of Mexicali, Mex and Harold W Gibbons, 28, of Cardington collided at the intersection and the Gibbons machine caromed off into a parked car, knocking down two pedestrians on the way.

The parked car belonged to Paul E. Spang, 55, of Cardington. The pedestrians, who suffered cuts and bruises, were Wesley Wheeler, 77, and Hubert Wallace, 53, both of Cardington. Anna Howard, a passenger in the Gibbons car, suffered a cut lip.

Legislation To Aid Farmers Urged By Marion Co. Bureau

Six Resolutions Adopted at Annual Meeting: Four New Directors Elected.

Six resolutions calling for improvement of the farmer's economic and social status were passed by the Marion County Farm Bureau in its annual meeting Thursday night at Pleasant township school

The county group went on record as favoring legislation providing for more funds from the state for an improved health program in schools of Marion county and other counties throughout Ohio with a full-time physical education program included in the regular curriculum They called for legislation to increase state allocation of funds to rural schools and for a more equitable means of giving farmers a proportionate share of the national income

Resolutions also were passed asking for higher analysis of fertilizer to improve soils and for leveling spoil banks in strip mining areas to a degree suitable for reforestation or pasture lands

Another resolution seeks improved telephone service in the rural areas of the county and calls for a Farm Bureau committee to meet with telephone company officials to discuss means of improving the service

New Directors Chosen

The resolutions were approved after being submitted and read by Harold Patrick chairman of the resolutions committee Other business included passage of an amendment changing the articles of incorporation of the Marion county Farm Bureau and election of four new directors The new directors are Southeast district, Edwin Berger of near Waldo, southwest, Ernest Gast of near Prospect northwest, Ed Schweinfurth of New Bloomington northeast, Homer Keil of Caledonia All directors will serve for three-year terms Calvin Baldinger of near Claridon was elected for one year to fill the unexpired term of Mrs Allen Longacre

Delegates named to the annual state Farm Bureau convention in Columbus Nov 19, 20 and 21 are Robert Fisele of New Bloomington Harold Patrick of Pleasant township and Robert Denzer of near Prospect was elected first alternate

Co-op Report Given

V F Stevens, co-op manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau gave a financial report and outlined plans for the sale of $15 000 worth of preferred stock in Marion county

Speaker was Rev Tennyson Guyer of Ohio City, who called for greater cooperation among people, especially farmers He declared that the world today has "grabbits," with persons looking too much to their own interests People of America should be thankful for what they have and should have greater faith in themselves, he said

More than 300 persons attended the meeting, with Mr. Eisele, president of the Marion County Farm Bureau board, presiding The refreshments committee included Mr and Mrs Robert Blank Mr and Mrs. Carl Hoch and Mr Patrick

Bob Hope Bumps Into Bob Hope In Cleveland Store

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov 8 — This is how Bob Hope met Bob Hope

Dashing from a department store where in shirtsleeves he had spent a literary afternoon autographing copies of his new book yesterday, the comedian with the shi-shide nose was confronted at side exit by a man of serious mien

"Well" said Bob Hope extending his hand Your name——'

'I'm Bob Hope' the man replied

'You're Bob Hope'" Hope asked

The original Bob Hope' replied the other

Thus Bob Hope 54 native of Scotland and now head of the industrial materials section of the Cleveland OPA office, confused the comedian whose fame has been both boon and bane to the elder Hope

The name has been a bane when answering phone calls from people he doesn't know, he tells them he's Bob Hope Then the caller frequently mutters something about his name being Napoleon And store clerks can be tiresome when his wife signs sales slips

But the name is a boon too Recently it got him a room at a Mansfield hotel 'sold out' until the clerk heard his name

The elder Hope thought the comedian "a real nice chap"

"All the time he had his arm around my shoulder he was tickling me," he said.

Rubber Industry Says 65,000,000 Tires Made

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov 8—The rubber industry is producing 65,000,000 automobile tires this year but it will be the last quarter of 1947 before car owners can walk into a store and buy any make they desire.

So spoke Arthur W Carpenter, manager of the B F Goodrich Co's testing laboratories, before the Cleveland chapter of the American Society of Testing Materials last night.

The industry has a "tremendous vacuum" to fill, he added, and this depends on how continuously the industry will be able to operate in coming months

ARMY TIGHTENS WAR COLLEGE CENSORSHIP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 8—The 'leak' of an off-the-record talk on Russia by Secretary of Commerce W Averell Harriman has resulted in vigorous official efforts to caulk the seams of the new national war college

The 100 army, navy and state department officials studying top level military and diplomatic policies there have been reminded sharply they must keep strictly mum on everything they are told during their nine-month course

The same stipulation has been imposed on the few visitors who are admitted on rare invitations

Officials who disclosed the new secrecy precautions today would not say whether other measures had been taken or were contemplated But they stressed privately that Vice Adm Harry W Hill, the war college commandant, and his aides were determined that the institution should function under a blanket of silence

Harriman, former ambassador to Moscow, was quoted last month by Agence France Presse the French news agency as having told the college that Marshal Stalin was convinced the capitalist and communist systems can not exist permanently alongside each other

Although Harriman commented afterward the report bore little resemblance to what I actually said," its publication created an international furore

Military circles understood that the Harriman 'leak' had been traced to a specific individual, and that a proposal to identify him by name was turned down They hinted strongly that a published report that an army colonel was responsible just wasn't so.

COTTON SPECULATION CUT RECOMMENDED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 8—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today recommended that speculative transactions in cotton futures be reduced sharply as a means of protecting the recent two-cent price advance in the cotton futures market

He proposed that the amount of cotton futures that a person may trade speculatively on one day or hold in the market should be limited to 30 000 bales in all futures combined The proposed limits, however, would not apply to bona fide hedging transactions

The maximum limit now is 30,000 bales in any one future

Anderson's recommendations will be laid before a formal public hearing to be held by the government's commodity exchange commission here Dec 10

W. VA. DEMOCRATS DENY VOTING FRAUD

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov 8 A Democratic spokesman said today Republican claims of fraud in Tuesday's senatorial election were the opening wedge in an attempt to deny Sen Harley M. Kilgore (D-WVa) his seat by senate action

Republican National Committeeman Walter S Hallanan and Logan county GOP. Chairman Jay Ferguson said yesterday that Republican ballots were destroyed

Logan County Prosecutor Chauncey Browning denounced the accusation and declared:

"The statement of Mr. Hallanan is the beginning of a concerted propaganda campaign to supply the Republican senate with sufficient phony information so they will have an excuse for refusing Senator Kilgore the seat to which the people of this state elected him"

Republicans have refused to concede the defeat of their candidate Thomas B. Sweeney of Wheeling saying they would await the result of the official canvass starting next Tuesday.

The unofficial tabulation of voters by The Associated Press, with only 13 of the state's 2,799 precincts missing gave Kilgore 271,363 and Sweeney 268,238—a lead for Kilgore of 3,123

In Memory
★Of our mother, Ida B Christian, who passed away Nov 8, 1942
Dear Mother, the breath has left you,
They have folded your hands on your breast
You've closed your eyes on this earth forever
And gone to God for eternal rest
There's an empty chair at the table,
There's a vacant place in our home,
But we must not, must not mourn
For 'twas God's holy rule.
It is hard for those who loved you
To see you put beneath the sod,
But the One who gave you, came and claimed you,
And now you abide with God.
The Children.

Dog Quarantine Lifted By City Health Board

The dog quarantine was lifted in the city at the monthly meeting of the city board of health Thursday. The quarantine was invoked last April. It is still in effect in the county.

W. M. Warner, Marion county dog warden, said about 15 cases of rabies in dogs were observed last summer. He warned that although in the city dogs may now run loose during the day, state law prohibits allowing them to run loose during the night without being under control of their owner.

The first American fair of more than local importance was the American Fat-Stock show established in Chicago in 1878.

Whitney Lodge Elects Officers at Meeting

Election of officers for the new year was conducted when Whitney Lodge No. 848, Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, met Thursday night in the Legion Dugout.

Mrs. Iona Clark was chosen to serve as president; Mrs. Manda Spain, vice president, Mrs. Dorothy Wyrick, secretary; Mrs Leah Bruce, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Hirsh, conductress, Mrs. Louise Yost, warden; Mrs Grace Bowser, chaplain; Mrs Laura Manley, inner guard, and Mrs. Kathryn Murphy, outer guard. Installation of these officers will be held in December. A social hour followed the meeting with refreshments served by the social committee, Mrs. Leah Bruce, chairman.

State Auto Dealers Elect Carl E. Danner

Carl E. Danner, Marion automobile dealer, was elected treasurer of the Ohio Automobile Dealers association at a convention in Cleveland Thursday night, The Associated Press reported.

Other new officers elected by 1,200 members at closing sessions last night were Lester F. Donnell of Youngstown, president, succeeding A. E. White of Columbus; R. A. Hoskins, of Akron, first vice president; Ray Brandenburg of Washington C. H., second vice president, and A. R. Schatz of Defiance, secretary.

FBI Agent Heard By Foremen's Club

Members of the Marion Power Shovel Foremen's club heard Robert G. Pumphrey, special agent for the FBI, in their monthly meeting Thursday night at Hotel Harding. About 100 were present.

Mr. Pumphrey, whose home office is at Cleveland, covers this area. He outlined the background and formation of the FBI and told of incidents occurring during his service with the agency.

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS TALK ABOUT PRESIDENTS

Earl N. Hale Speaker at Dinner of Group.

Little known facts about the presidency was the topic of Earl N. Hale, speaker at the Exchange club weekly meeting Thursday night at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Hale exhibited cartoons dealing with the presidency over several administrations, many of which stressed the farm boy-to-president theme.

The fact that the president cannot be arrested while in office is well known, Mr. Hale said, but one president did receive a ticket for speeding in a carriage. He was U. S. Grant and, although he never was fined, he made a $25 deposit in court.

Washington served as president for a salary of $25,000, Mr Hale said. The stipend was raised to $50,000 during Grant's administration and to $75,000 during Taft's.

Armistice Day Talk On School Program

Walter Moore, attorney and graduate of Harding High school in 1928, was speaker at a Harding student assembly this morning. He gave an Armistice day address.

Mr. Moore served as a lieutenant on the aircraft carrier Franklin in World War II.

The assembly was opened by singing of the national anthem and pledge of allegiance. L. G. Jones, music director of the school, led in the singing of songs popular in the first and second World wars.

The assembly closed with singing of "God Bless America."

Mario Nolfi, president of the student council, presided for the program, which was arranged by the program committee of the student council.

Women's Arts Club Meets at Prospect

Special to The Star

PROSPECT—Mrs. Harold Osborn was hostess to the All Arts club Monday evening. Mrs. Frank Hazen led devotions. Mrs. Thomas Finefrock reported on articles made by the blind, which were on sale. Thanks to all who contributed art work for the Fine Arts Week sponsored by the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs were expressed by Mrs. Harold Osborn, chairman of the local art committee. Mrs. Nathan Rickey reported that all the patroness tickets had been sold. Mrs. J. E. Bricker announced the book sale to be held at the club home in Marion Nov. 12.

Mrs. George Thomas had charge of the program. Three papers were presented by Mrs. F. K. Dix, Mrs. John T. Boxwell and Mrs. Charles Collmer. Mrs. F. E. Wottring and Mrs. Nathan Rickey closed the program with a piano duet.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Harry Lauer and Mrs. Milo Gast.

On the next regular meeting of the Prospect Child Conservation league next Thursday all Prospect ladies are invited.

This meeting will be in the form of a frozen food talk by Miss Ruth Kleinmaier of the Ohio service department, who will also show movies on different ways frozen food lockers can be used.

The meeting will be held in the high school auditorium and will begin at 8 p. m. The regular C. C. L. business meeting will be at 7:30 p. m. immediately preceding the program.

All of the ladies attending the program are asked to bring some useful articles for a White Elephant Sale to be held following the talk, the proceeds to go to the Prospect Kindergarten.

Sulfa Drugs Used In Treatment of Bees

Use of sulfa drugs in treating foul brood among bees was explained by Lloyd Gardner, treasurer and manager of Ohio Apiary Co-op at Delaware, to about 40 members of the Marion Beekeepers association at the group's monthly meeting at the Y M C A Thursday night.

Mr. Gardner said good results in treating the disease have been obtained by feeding the bees sulfanilamide in their syrup.

CAT TURNED TO STONE

By The United Press

HELENA, Ark. — The razing of an old building revealed the body of a cat which had exhausted its nine lives during a 60-year imprisonment and then turned to stone. The body, perfectly preserved except for hair, was found in a section of the building which had no entrance or exit, indicating that the cat was imprisoned when the building was put up in 1886.

FORECASTER SAYS IT WILL BE NOTRE DAME 28, ARMY 21

Thinks Irish Will Snap Cadets' Winning Streak After 3 Years

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Notre Dame will end Army's three-year winning streak in Yankee stadium tomorrow.

That's the opinion of this college football forecaster, who is typing this weekly stint with blistered fingers—acquired while burying the family fortune in the back lot to avoid any chances of backing his own guesses with cash. The mythical national championship will be at stake.

But those lop-sided defeats of the past two years have been on every Notre Dame football mind since the start of practice—and the gridiron world learned last Saturday in the Princeton-Penn upset what a truly inspired team can do.

28 to 21

Getting specific, Notre Dame will win by a 28 to 21 score.

Other guesses on this weekend's games:

Southern California over California: Gordon Gray has regained his pre-war form and the Trojans of Southern California again are the toughies of old.

Rice over Arkansas: It may be that this game will settle the Southwest conference race. Clyde Scott, the one-time Navy hero, is healed but if his new-found Arkansas mates win it will be a bigger upset than the recent Rice victory over Texas.

Iowa over Wisconsin: The Badgers have a weak defense, Iowa can do everything well but score. Here's where they learn.

Alabama over Louisiana State: Harry Gilmer was held completely in check last week. He is too good to suffer that fate on successive Saturdays.

Penn Over Columbia

Pennsylvania over Columbia: In the belief that the potentially great Quaker club learned its lesson last week when Princeton triumphed.

Northwestern over Indiana: Ben Raimondi's passes will keep it close but the Wildcats will have power enough to win.

Georgia Tech over Navy: The Middies are reported as a "coming" team. They are coming head-on into their sixth defeat.

O. S. U. To Beat Pitt

Ohio State over Pittsburgh: Midwesterners say Ohio State now is the class of the Big Nine. That makes it easy.

Detroit over Villanova: A Friday night that will have plenty of fireworks, with those of Detroit the more brilliant.

North Carolina over William and Mary: North Carolina lost last Saturday—and it is unheard of that the Tarheels drop two in a row.

U.C.L.A. over Oregon: Burr Baldwin, great U.C.L.A. end, to make another personal show of it.

Midwest: Tulsa over Oklahoma A. and M., Iowa State over Drake, Wichita over St. Louis, Michigan over Michigan State, Purdue over Minnesota, Kentucky over Marquette, Oklahoma over Kansas, Missouri over Colorado.

Indianapolis Hockey Team Stretches Lead

By The Associated Press

Despite the fact that the Detroit Red Wings have recalled Les Douglas and Gerry Couture, two of its best point getters, the Indianapolis Capitals continue to trample opposition in the American Hockey league.

The CAPS, a farm club of the Red Wings, stretched their Western Division first place margin over the Cleveland Barons to three points and extended their unbeaten streak to nine straight games last night by dynamiting the Springfield Indians, 10-0.

It was rookie goal tender Ralph Almas' second 10-0 shutout victory of the season.

In the only other game, the St. Louis Flyers prevented the New Haven Ramblers from moving into a first place deadlock with the Hershey Bears for the Eastern Division leadership by nosing out the Ramblers, 2-1.

CORRECTION

Jack Draper of Marion defeated Ronnie Blake of Mt. Vernon by a t.k.o. in the second round of the final bout at the W. and L. Athletic club fight program Wednesday night. The Star last night erroneously listed Blake as the winner in three rounds.

BRUISED BISHOPS GET SET FOR KENT STATE

DELAWARE, Nov. 8 — Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops don't have time to think about that jolt they got at the hands of Ohio university's Bobcats—they're looking ahead to another tough foe—Kent State. Ohio Wesleyan closes its home season against the Kent Staters, Saturday at Selby field.

The Bishops didn't fare too badly against the Bobcats according to "Doc" W. C. Freeman and Trainer John Buckley. Most of the bruises will be worked out by Saturday, but the mental side of absorbing a 40-7 defeat won't be straightened out until Saturday(when George Gauthier's team meets the Golden Flashes, when they can "take it out on Trevor Rees' "new deal" team at Kent.

Kent State is expected to provide a good grid eleven to face the Bishops in their eighth game of the season. Ohio Wesleyan tied Baldwin-Wallace. Kent State dropped a 20-13 game to the Yellow Jackets. Despite this comparison, the Saturday rivals look to be the makings of a real "natural." Against Baldwin-Wallace, Kent State counted 13 first downs against 8 for the winners. They gained a hundred yards from running plays and 90 more from aerials, yet lost the game.

Toledo Pro Cagers Trip Syracuse 57-43

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 8 — The Toledo Jeeps were off to a good start today in the National Basketball league, triumphing 57 to 43 over the Syracuse, N. Y., Nationals in the loop's season opener.

Toledo's playing coach, Jule Rivlin, was virtually a one-man show as he tallied 17 points in the inaugural played before 4,000 fans in the University of Toledo gym.

Bob Nugent, ex-Syracuse university luminary, led the Nations with 11 points.

The league's next games are scheduled for Saturday night with Chicago playing at Oshkosh and Syracuse at Buffalo. Other cities in the 12-team league, which plays a 267-game schedule ending March 15, are Detroit, Sheboygan, Anderson, Rochester, Youngstown, Indianapolis and Ft. Wayne.

76,000 TO WITNESS O.S.U.-PITT BATTLE

Buckeye Supporters Worried About Wet Field.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8 — Some 76,000 football fans are expected to fill Ohio State stadium Saturday with the Bucks favored to subdue the Pittsburgh Panthers handily — that is unless the weather bogs down the home team's offensive drive.

Rain which turned the Ohio State gridiron into heavy going yesterday caused some concern among Buckeye supporters who have been anticipating an easy triumph. They pointed out that the Bucks have encountered mostly favorable weather this season.

Campus analysts recall last year's 14-0 Buckeye victory over Pitt was achieved on a wet field after Ohio was picked by at least 20 points.

Plans call for a gala day. Wes Fesler, Pitt mentor and former All-America end from Ohio State, will be greeted by many alumni and friends. This is his first year at Pitt.

Saturday also will be Dads Day and a brief tribute also will be paid to 685 Ohio Staters who died in World War II.

Guard Bob McGinnis remained on the sick list today with an injured angle. Substitute end Curley Morrison has been ill since Wednesday with a cold and fever.

Prexy Students Hold Sandusky Pep Rally

While a bon fire blazed away and a large H 15 feet high illuminated by 50 flares stood on the practice field, Harding High students and loyal supporters of the Prexie gridders held a special pep rally last night.

Rob Roy Reidenbaugh, a returned veteran, acted as master of ceremonies at the rally. Don Zeisler, regular right tackle for the team, gave a short speech in representation of the squad and W. N. Wiley representing the coaching staff gave a speech as to the team's chances in tonight's game.

After that a skit called Our Girls Football Team was presented by 11 high school misses. The band was active all through the program and the cheer leaders led the crowd in a number of spirited yells.

The Alma Mater and Fight song were sung at the end of the program and afterwards a snake dance was held around the fire. The rally was sponsored by the student council.

O.W.U. TRACKMEN IN MEET

DELAWARE, Nov. 8—Having won four straight cross country meets against stiff Ohio competition, Ohio Wesleyan university's crack cross country team will be entered in the National Intercollegiate cross country meet to be held at Michigan State college, East Lansing, Mich., on Nov. 25. Leading the Bishop team are Quentin Brelsford, Birmingham, Mich., track star who is one of the nation's leading milers, and Jim Swomley, Harrisburg, Pa., All-Ohio two-miler.

Every second of night and day, 7,000 persons board a trackless trolley coach, street car or bus in the United States and Canada.

FOOTBALL TOGS ON AND RARING to go Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame quarterback, gets his injured ankle taped by Trainer Hugh Burns in South Bend, Ind., before trotting slowly around the practice field.

Big 9 Standings Likely To Get Shakeup This Weekend

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 8 — Standings in the Western Conference football race probably will get a shakeup after three league games tomorrow but Illinois was assured of holding the top spot for at least another week.

The Illini, with four conference wins against one defeat, is the only Big Nine team not in action tomorrow and with second-place Michigan playing Michigan State in a non-conference contest, there was no chance of the Wolverines taking over the lead.

Northwestern, however, has an opportunity of moving into a tie with the runnerup Wolverines. The Wildcats, with a 2-1-1 record in league play, would tie Michigan with a victory over Indiana in one of the three Big Nine games. A defeat would just about eliminate Northwestern from further consideration for Big Nine laurels. The Hoosiers, twice defeated in four conference games, also will be out of the running by a setback.

Wisconsin and Iowa will be fighting to break their deadlock with Indiana for fifth place. All have 2-2-0 records. In the third conference game Purdue and Minnesota will be seeking their first Big Nine victory. The Gaphers have lost four while the Boilermakers have tied one of four league contests.

In a second non-conference game, Ohio State meets Pittsburgh at Columbus.

Espyville Homecoming

Homecoming services will be held at the Espyville community church at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The program will be followed by a revival service with A. J. Smith, evangelist, better known as "Red" Smith, former pastor of the Second Pilgrim Holiness church in Marion preaching and William Fout in charge of music.

Harding Entertains Sandusky While Irish Wind Up Season in Battle at Mt. Gilead

Both local high schools will see action on the football field tonight. Harding gives their last home performance against Sandusky and St. Mary bows out of the picture at Mt. Gilead.

In the contest at Harding stadium neither team has won a game this season which should make it interesting since, barring a tie, this will be a first victory for either team. Sandusky is the lighter of the two and so far has not broken even in any of its contests.

Prexies Handicapped.

Harding has been handicapped throughout the season by lack of scoring punch but against Ashland, Findlay and Mansfield they tallied. Tonight in his effort to put speed in the backfield, Coach Thomas is going to play Leo Coffey at a halfback position. Whether he will start has not been announced, but he will be given a chance to carry the ball. Coffey, one of the fastest men on the squad is handicapped by poor eyesight and has been substituting at right and left tackle throughout the season.

Running off the T it is hoped that he will be able to break away. Should this new combination work out, the Prexies have a chance to make this a scoring ball game. All of the Harding backs have improved considerably this season which makes the belief that Harding will pick up several scores not too absurd. Should the Chief Executives turn on real scoring punch, next week's opponent, Springfield, stands to be surprised.

Irish Gun for Second.

St. Mary, which has done all right in games outside of the Mid-State league, will attempt to get its second win in the league tonight when they go against Mt. Gilead. The Irish have produced in their past two contests and stand to have more than enough power against Mt. Gilead, which has only won two games this season, while tying one and losing five. Mt. Gilead is ahead of the parochials in the league standings but unless they upset the Irish they stand to drop to fourth place.

This will be Mt. Gilead's homecoming thus giving their coach a good chance to inspire them to a victory. Their right half, Nelson Campbell, is a fast, shifty runner and usually picks up some nice gains for his club. Left end Tennent has figured in some scoring plays by receiving passes and on defense has several blocked punts to his credit.

Seniors To Start.

Coach Fetter is going to give his players, who tonight will don the St. Mary green for the last time, a break in that all seven of them will start. Boys playing for the last time are Bob Tobin, Lynn Huber, Jim Wagner, Pat Bray and Gene Norris on the line while Walter Anderson and Ed Burke will be the senior members of the backfield. Of 50 boys in the high school, 30 of them are on the football squad.

St. Mary Lineup.

St. Mary will probably start the following: Huber and Tobin at the ends, Wagner and Bray at the tackle positions, Norris and Maineri, guards, Dan Smith, center, Anderson, quarterback, Burke and Stuber, halfs and Baldauf, fullback.

Against them Mt. Gilead will probably send Tennant and Burnell at the ends, Phillips and Kimmey, tackles, Hardman and Crawford, guards, Gallaher, center, Dick Campbell, quarterback, West left half, Nelson Campbell, right half, Pete Campbell, fullback.

Grid Crystal Ball Gazer Finds Easy One—Miami Over Miami

By DON STULL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8—This football picker's dream come true: Miami (O.) plays Miami in the deep south today. Miami, of course!

Any timid soul might stop there, but not us. We think Sid Gillman's Miami, O., boys, who have won six straight since losing to Purdue, rate one of the best "small" college teams in the nation, and can whip all the Floridians.

That Miami-Miami tussle isn't the only sure thing on this week-end's game program. There are plenty of others looking almost as good as money in the bank. So much so that we stand to improve our early season rating of 81 correct selections and 49 faulty ones.

O.S.U. Over Pittsburgh

Ohio State figures to pulverize Pitt's Panthers even though some of the old timers shudder to think that Pitt's coach, the same Wesley Fitzgerald who made gridiron history as an All-America end more than a decade and a half ago, will be opposing his alma mater Saturday.

Ohio university, too, looks like a cinch to rub the state's only remaining undefeated team—Baldwin-Wallace—from the unconquered list, after struggling to a scoreless tie against the same Ohio Wesleyan team which Ohio U. swamped 49-0 last week. That should convince the most skeptical.

Cincinnati, smarting from the Notre Dame trimming, probably will have trouble trying to shut the gates of mercy against neighboring Xavier.

Looking like the tightest tussles of the week are: Wilberforce over Kentucky State with the Kentuckians rating a slight nod; Dayton over Chattanooga with the latter gaining our vote; Case over Carnegie Tech with Case favored for the first time this year, and Kent State at Ohio Wesleyan, the home team looking like the dinner.

The other favorites appear in for easier sledding. Looking them over, we like:

Defiance over Bluffton in a Friday tilt; Toledo over Wayne of Michigan and West Virginia Wesleyan on top of Marietta in a pair of Armistice day events.

On the Saturday slate: Akron over Wooster in their first meeting in nine years; Findlay over Ashland; Bowling Green over St. Bonaventure in New York; Western Reserve to manhandle John Carroll; Cedarville in its fourth win over Rose Poly in Indiana; Denison to enter the victory column for the first time in a game with Capital; Hiram over Lawrence Tech; Heidelberg to start Kenyon on another losing streak; Allegheny over Mount Union; Muskingum handily over W. and J.; Ohio Northern over Wittenberg; Oberlin over DePauw in Indiana; Youngstown to add another Pennsylvania victim, Morris Harvey, and Otterbein to build its scoring lead higher against Albion of Michigan.

Pre-Season Cage Play Opens at Y.M.C.A. Gym

Pre-season play was opened last night at the Y for members of the independent basketball league. These games are to determine which class each team will be in this season.

In the first contest Guy's Hardware scored a 34 to 18 win over Carroll's Jewelry. Kirkpatrick Independents bested McMillen Feeds 33 to 10. McMillen was subbing for Martel Elevator in the contest.

Y-Indus, subbing for American Legion Post 584, downed Caledonia K. of P. 40 to 10.

Tonight's games will feature the Buckeyes against Mc Millen Feeds at 7; Claridon Ex-Hi versus Green Camp K. of P. at 8; and Sally Ann Inn versus the Marion Challengers at 9.

Nenoff and Walberg Take Tag Team Match

Steve Nenoff and Whitey Walberg last night at the Armory took the first and third falls over Rufus Jones and Bobby Blake in a tag team match. Blake was replacing Dale Haddock on the program.

Walberg and Nenoff took the first fall in ten minutes with a toe hold. Jones and Blake came back to win the second fall in seven minutes by choking and using a body press. All four grapplers were in the ring most of the time during this fall. Walberg and Nenoff took the decisive fall in five minutes with a crab hold.

In preliminary matches Nenoff posted a win over Blake in 11 minutes with a crab hold and Jones downer Walberg in 13 minutes with a leg hold and body press.

In a 15-minute preliminary tag match Dick Murton and Freeman Smith fought Jim Garvin and Dick Levings to a draw.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—The National Football league is rather proud of its new rule which forbids signing college players until they have passed through the 1947 draft, even though their classes have been graduated. . . . The whole idea is to keep pro scouts from invading college campuses and disturbing peaceful relations with the source of supply. . . . A lot of kids have come back from the services looking like a lot better pro materia' than they were before the war. . . . Normally they would have passed through the draft when their classes left college and would be regarded as free agents now. . . . But the National league clubs agreed it would be better to lose out in the race for material than to start anything that might look like raiding. . . . "Anyway," one guy explained, "you might cause a lot of trouble signing up a boy and then he'd break a leg in the first week of practice."

Counting the House

More than 350 newsmen requested tickets to cover the Army-Notre Dame football game and exactly 147 seats are available, including 40 for telegraphers. . . . The rest will be occupied by representatives of 97 newspapers from 19 states and the District of Columbia, England, Australia and Sweden. . . . That leaves an awful lot of people who'll be mad at the West Point athletic department.

Moan of the Week

Bo McMillin, Indiana coach, was responsible for this tear-jerker while discussing his star center, John Cannady: "There's one trouble with having a kid like him around. It drives you crazy worrying about what is going to happen when he's gone."

Shorts and Shells

Sarah Palfrey, Cooke, the tennis star, has blossomed out as a radio commentator on pro basketball. She played the game in school, and field hockey, too. . . .

Greasy Neale's "Z-wide" formation, which scribes called a single wing when the Eagles revived it against the Redskins, is the same thing Greasy used at Virginia in 1928 to gain a tie with Princeton.

Pigskin Pickins

Ben Hogan Captures North, South Golf Open

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 8—Ben Hogan's feat of capturing the 45th annual North and South Open golf tournament by two strokes with a 282 gave him his third victory in the time-honored event and boosted his total money winnings this year to more than $40,000.

Hogan, the leading money winner of the year, captured the 72-hole tournament with a six-under par score over the country club's 6,879-yard layout to lead Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., by two strokes.

Fourth place went to Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., who wound up with 289, two strokes in front of Ed Furgol of Fontiac, Mich.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., was the low amateur with 301.

Cranberries grow on a trailing evergreen vine and fare best in swampland that has a shallow surface of peat.

15-Year-Old Back Sets Scoring Pace

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — A 15-year-old halfback is setting the pace on high school gridirons of New Mexico.

Charles (Chuck) Hill has run up 1,249 yards on total offense in 118 plays topped by an 85-yard touchdown dash after scooping up a fumble.

Chuck Hill

Hill's record for six games against representative teams in New Mexico and one El Paso, Tex., school:

67 points from 11 touchdowns and one conversion.

8 touchdowns made on his passes.

846 yards rushing in 81 carries, for a sensational average of 10.4 yards per carry.

403 yards passing on 22 completions in 37 tries for a .595 mark.

Hill is a junior and will be 16 in January. He is playing his second year of high school football after an introduction to a pigskin in one year of junior high competition. He came here five years ago from Canadian, Tex. His father, Charles W. Hill, is a real estate man.

TEACHERS GET RAISE

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Nov. 8—Effective Jan. 1, a salary increase of $190 a year will go to 627 Canton public school teachers. The board of education approved the boost last night on the basis of passage of a one mill tax operating levy in Tuesday's election. It also established new minimum and maximum rates for teachers, ranging from $1,710 to $2,755 for elementary grades, and granted an increase of $120 a year to 130 year-round non-teaching employes.

ANNUAL RACE HORSE SALE SETS RECORDS

Closes with Several Previous High Price Marks Broken.

By The Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 8—With sales for two days already totaling $581,995, the annual standard bred horse sale closed today with a final batch of close to 200 going under the hammer at the farm show arena.

This year's sale has shattered all records in high bidding and attendance of bidders. Yesterday's auction crowd saw Egan Hanover, a brown colt consigned by the Hanover Shoe Farms, go for $21,000, highest price ever paid for a yearling colt.

All records for previous sales were broken when seven additional horses brought $5,000 or better during the second day's auction that saw 203 horses change hands for a cash outlay of $397,860.

Follow Me, bred and consigned by the Village Farm at Langhorne, Bucks county, moved into the high-price class when he was knocked down to W. O. Wright of Federalsburg, Md., for $10,000, second highest of the sale.

Up with the top money horses were Lieut. Commander, consigned by the Peninsular Farms, Fremont, O., and purchased by William Mabrey, of Dexter, Me., for $8,200; Madison Hanover, another Hanover Farms yearling, purchased by William B Strang Jr., for $8,100; Linda's Boy, bought by W. J. Tillner of Warsaw, N. Y., for $7,700; and Val Hanover, which went to Henrietta Balish, of Manhattan Beach, N. Y., for $6,800.

One of the features of the sale was the purchase by W. G. Stewart, of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, of a weaning colt for the record price of $250. The colt was foaled in April of this year and offered in the ring by Hoof Beats Farm, Robesonia, Berks county, Pa.

O.W.U. Cagers Open Practice Sessions

DELAWARE, Nov. 8—With a 27-game schedule outlined and Edwards gym overflowing with basketball talent, Ohio Wesleyan university this week opened cage practices for the coming season.

Coach Robert Strimer has 50 cagers working out already and a dozen or so more coming at the close of football season, and his big problem of the moment is trying to fit 17 varsity lettermen into a 15-man varsity squad.

An intercollegiate schedule is being planned for the Junior Bishops, a reserve team to be coached by Les Michael. Varsity cagers open their season on Tuesday, Dec. 10 against College of Wooster and have out-of-state games carded with Syracuse, New York State Teachers college, Wabash and Ashland, Ky., along with a game with tropical flavor, carded with the Hawaii All Stars.

Contestants In Grid Battle Of Century Arrive For Struggle

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—The two foremost contenders for the mythical national college championship honors pitched camp on the outskirts today while an invading horde of thrill-seekers descended on the big town for football's Battle of the Century between Army and Notre Dame.

With their respective adherents pouring in by the thousands to await the opening of Yankee stadium's gates tomorrow, both teams were poised for their 33rd meeting.

The rugged grind of preparation past—both teams had their final tough drills Wednesday—the principals in this great grid drama were scheduled for light drills while the fans engaged in one last round of speculation, asking mainly:

Rain's Effect Weighed

How threatened rain would affect the outcome, by impeding the T-formation operations of both teams, by slowing up Army's fleet Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis, by contributing to fumbles that could tip the result either way.

Whether Notre Dame's ace Johnny Lujack would be fully recovered from Wednesday's ankle injury.

Whether the absence of Army's Herschel Fuson would throw out of gear the Cadets' backfield precision.

These and many others were the questions fanned back and forth in this pigskin-conscious town.

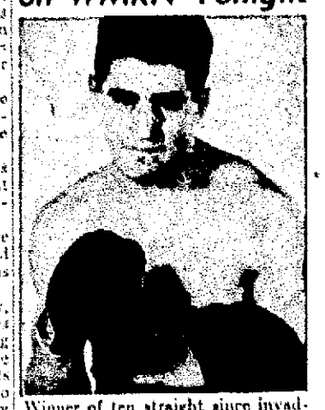
In army's favor, psychologically, was the impetus of 25 victories stretching back to the beginning of the 1944 season. Notre Dame had the revenge motive as its psychological weapon—the urge to wipe out those 107 points Army ran up in whipping the Irish in the last two clashes.

Army's physical assets included a team of 60-minute players, eight of whom have operated together the better part of three years. Notre Dame boasted a big, able squad three deep at most positions.

In short, the Irish were counting on quantity in both line and backfield material, while Army banked on strength of one good unit.

Frang Leahy and his squad of 36 were to arrive at Bear Mountain this morning and remain at the inn overnight, traveling by bus to the battle site tomorrow. The cadet entourage was scheduled to leave West Point by bus at mid-day for Knollwood Country club, in suburban Westchester country, where they will spend the night.

Sharp Welter "Go" on WMRN Tonight



Winner of ten straight since invading the East, Bernard Docusen, teenage New Orleans welterweight sensation, makes another important start tonight when he opposes Vinnie LaSalva (above) of Mt. Vernon, New York, in a slated eight-rounder.

The Louisiana whirlwind has amazed veteran ringmen with his boxing technique. Fast and shifty, he employs a lightning left hand and a sharp right. Because of his beautiful boxing, Docusen's punching power is sometimes overlooked.

Short and stocky LaSalva, however, is no slouch at the beak-busting craft and is rising fast in welterweight ranks. He's a combination boxer-puncher—his best weapon being a solid right.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WMRN (1490 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

Discuss Proposal For Ashley Flying School

ASHLEY—Allan Myers, former Ashley man, is considering the possibilities of a local Flying School. Flying a cub plane owned by the Hinde Airport of Sandusky, O., where Mr. Myers is now employed, he landed on the Carper-Miller farm, one mile south of Ashley, where he and Mr. Carper are considering the possibilities of a local airport. They hope to have it approved by the government to train veterans under the GI Bill of Rights.

Myers, former Army bomber pilot and prisoner of war, is completing an Instructors' course at Hinde-Dietrick Airport in Sandusky, under the GI training program.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS OUTLINE PROGRAMS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—What Republican leaders say they plan to do with G.O.P. control of congress.

Rep. Martin (Mass.), expected to be the next speaker of the house—"Take the government out of the people's hair and put it back in their hands."

Senator Vandenberg (Mich.), in line for chairmanship of foreign relations committee—"The verdict is a clear endorsement of our united bi-partisan foreign policy."

Senator Taft (Ohio), chairman Republican steering committee—"We can sit down calmly and work out the constructive measures necessary for peace, for full employment under private enterprise and for social welfare, while leaving the people free to run their own affairs."

Chairman B. Carroll Reece of Republican national committee—"There will be an end to the practice of the federal government spending more than it takes in x x x subversive and radical elements will be rooted out and kept out."

Rep. Halleck (Ind.), who led congressional campaign—"The error of government by executive order is at end, and America now resumes the path of ordered liberty under due process of law."

Rep. Knutson (Minn.), expected to head house tax-writing committee—Plans to reduce federal individual income taxes 20 per cent or $3,000,000,000.

Senator-elect Bricker (Ohio)—"There should be a cut in the federal income tax so people can have more use of their own money. Taxes now are stifling private enterprise."

Rep. Clarence Brown (Ohio) national campaign director, said there will be "strong support" for a resolution to be offered in new congress to officially end the war and thus end emergency wartime powers of President.

YOUNGEST. Robert Leroy Bock (above), 21, Stafford County Democrat, Macksville, Kas., and a University of Kansas sophomore, was elected to the Kansas house of representatives in the complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's elections. Bock, not old enough to vote in the August primaries, became twenty-one Sept. 5. A war veteran, he will be the youngest member of the Kansas legislature.

Hardin Co. 4-H Clubs Plan Kenton Meeting

KENTON, Nov. 8—A county-wide 4-H achievement meeting will be held here Saturday. All 4-H clubs in the county will be awarded achievement certificates, pins and ribbons won at the Hardin county fair in September.

Featured on the program will be W. H. Palmer, state club leader. Mr. and Mrs George Pratt and County Agricultural Agent B. E. Bradford will have charge of the program.

TAFT PREDICTS CUT IN FEDERAL BUDGET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 8 — Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) yesterday predicted a federal budget of $25,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 as the result of the election of a Republican congress. This would compare with a current budget og $33,000,000,000.

He said "we must balance the federal budget which has not been balanced for 15 years, but I do not favor paying off the national debt too fast."

Taft spoke at a news conference prior to addressing the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons. He said taxes "probably" could be cut and that they "should be cut because they now are taking one-third of the national income, a heavy burden to bear."

For the Army and Navy together $10,000,000,000 to $12,000,000,000; interest of the national debt $5,000,000,000; for veterans $6,000,000,000; and for federal departments $2,000,000,000. The balance of the budget, he said, would be required for such items as tax refunds, loans to foreign nations, and "such aid as we may give" to agriculture.

Taft declined to answer a question as to whether he would be a presidential candidate in 1948.

"This is a team play proposition," he said, "in which I will play my part. I am hoping the Republicans will develop a legislative program."

He added that he had called a meeting of the Republican senate steering committee for 2 p. m. next Thursday, the same time the Republican house committee will meet to discuss such matters as the organization of the 80th congress as well as proposed legislation.

SLOWED RECOVERY RULES IN MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Slow-motion recovery ruled in today's stock market with the rails pacing a selective advance.

Aside from a few fairly active flurries, dealings were quiet from the start. Offerings came in after midday and extreme gains of fractions to 2 or more points were reduced in most cases near the fourth hour. Assorted losers persisted.

On the forward shift were Chicago and Northwestern common and preferred, Pennsylvania Railroad, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern Baltimore and Ohio, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Electric Power and Light, Westinghouse Electric, Paramount Pictures (on a raised disbursement), Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical and Union Carbide.

Rail bonds were favored. Grains slipped.

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

Saturday football on networks—ABC 1:15, NBC 1:28, CBS 1:30—Army vs. Notre Dame from New York, also to be televised by NBC to New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Schenectady.

MBS 2:45 — Northwestern vs. Indiana from Evanston, Ill.

• • •

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—The new Bing Crosby show, put on recordings ahead of time and relayed each Wednesday night by ABC and an additional group of stations, has been running long enough to give the Crosby enthusiasts and others time to react. Could be to some the available comment hereabouts might be regarded as "lese majesty" or the like, but nevertheless it sums itself up as:

"The program seems to lack the sparkle of the former days when the performance and the broadcast were simultaneous."

Saturday's game will be last football broadcast of the season for ABC. Beginning next week it presents the first of the annual matinee relays from the Metropolitan Opera stage in New York, starting the Verdi's "Othello."

• • •

Listening tonight (Friday): NBC—8:30 Alan Young comedy, 9 People Are Funny, 9:30 Waltz Time, 10 Bert Lytell in mystery theater.

CBS — 7:30 Meredith Willson music, 8 Fanny Brice, 9 Ginny Simms show, 9:30 Moore and Durante, 10 It Pays to Be Ignorant.

ABC—8 Court of Missing Heirs, 8:30 This is FBI, 9 Break the Bank quiz, 10 Bour. Bernard Docusen vs. Vince La Salka, 12:30 Marine Corps birthday bill.

MBS—8 Burl Ives recorded song, 8:30 Love Story theater, 9:30 Harry James Band, 10:30 Meet the Press, Harold E. Stassen.

All times given are Eastern Standard Time. Erroneous listings, if any, are caused by last-minute changes made by stations and networks.

"Urge" Killer Ruled Sane; Trial Set Dec. 9

By The Associated Press

BRYAN, O., Nov. 8—James R. Engle, 21, alleged slayer of librarian Emily Abernathy, was held sane yesterday by common pleas judge Maxwell Williams.

Nevertheless, Engle later pleaded innocent by reasons of insanity to two charges of first degree murder and his trial was set for Dec. 9.

He was returned here after a period of observation at the Lima State hospital for the criminal insane.

MARY A. CANFIELD COUNCIL

The charter was draped for Mrs. Georgia Ebert who died recently when Mary A. Canfield Council No. 210, Daughters of America, met last night in the Democratic hall. Final nomination of officers was held and an announcement was made of the Past Councilors meeting to be held Wednesday night, Nov. 13, with Mrs. Bess Peoples on East Center street. The next union meeting of the district will be held Dec. 4 in Galion. Mrs. Essie Thompson reported on a national session she attended last week in Cincinnati.

I SAY, LEE, I'M TRULY SORRY IF JANE ALLEN'S WORKING ON MY HONORUM MISSION HERE HAS THROWN YOUR SOCIAL LIFE WITH HER SO OUT OF KILTER...
OKAY, CRISPIN, FORGET IT...
PLACING SUCH IMPORTANCE ON A BIT OF TRADE DOES SEEM STUPID AT TIMES, ESPECIALLY WITH THE WAR SO FRESH IN OUR MINDS...
IT SOUNDS AS IF PLENTY OF TRADE WENT ON AROUND HERE—WAR OR NO WAR!... YOUR BUSINESS CONTACTS SEEM GOOD AND FRESH...
OH, INDEED! I HAD A JOLLY LONG TIME TO KEEP THEM STIRRED BY CORRESPONDENCE THROUGH MUTUAL AGENTS IN NEUTRAL COUNTRIES...
I THOUGHT SO ALL ALONG!... IT'S JUST TOO BAD THE NASTY OLD SHOOTING HAD TO INCONVENIENCE YOU INVOICE BOYS EVEN AS MUCH AS IT DID!
THE BUSINESS LETTER REALLY SERVED A THERAPEUTIC PURPOSE AFTER I LOST MY LEFT ARM AT EL ALAMEIN. THE STUMP WOULDN'T HEAL PROPERLY—SO IT WAS GOOD TO HAVE SOMETHING TO PASS THE TIME IN THE HOSPITAL...

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

MENTALLY echoed Dr Twitchell's comment as I made my way to the Underwood suite whose occupants I had locked up for the safety of Jack's secret ad-vent into the household, and for fear of Carolyn's discovery that the attic held the key to still more vital secret

As I turned the key of the sitting room door, I heard sudden movement behind it. When I entered, all four women were standing, and I noticed that while Lillian was watching Helena intently, Marion was not eyeing Carolyn with any apparent suspicion. Instead she stood with her arm around her "roomie's" waist

Sees Shoals Ahead

I could see shoals ahead in my plan for having Marion watch Carolyn But I shoved even the thought of them aside for the next hour or two Carolyn would be under my own eye, and I could depend upon Lillian to keep Helena under strict espionage

Helena's still beautiful face was so distorted with mockery as she saw me that she looked positively ugly and old

"Aha!" our jailer!" she sneered "Are we to be let out for meals, or are we to have them shoved through the door? Or perhaps—we're not going to get anything to eat at all"

With a mean little impulse, I snatched a large hand mirror from the dresser and held it up in front of Helena's eyes.

"Youre too good-looking, Helena," I said carelessly, "to let yourself go like this"

Voice is Venmous

She took one startled look into the mirror, and then her vanity stepped in and smoothed her features back into their usual lines But her voice was still venomous

"You tried to brain me with that mirror!" she shrilled. "Lillian! You are my oldest friend. Aren't you going to protect me from Madge?"

"Mother!" Carolyn begged "Don't talk like that! I don't like her any better than you do, but the sort of stuff you're getting off is just bilge. It makes you sound silly!"

Bursts into Tears

Helena burst into the flood of tears which she always has on top for emergencies.

I turned to Lillian, trying to keep my lips from quirking into a grin

"I came in to tell you that supper is about ready in the dining room," I said "Harry is going to stay with Sam who will have a tray sent up in a few minutes Katharine is seeing to it. If you four are ready, I would be happy to take you down to the dining room now. Katie is on edge for fear that her hot rolls—she has dozens of them—won't be just right."

Lead the Way

"Katie's hot rolls are not to be treated with disrespect," Lillian said lightly. "I think we shall all be glad to go down. Will you lead the way, please?"

I knew her reason for the request She wanted to give Helena an out for yielding without having my eyes on her.

"Of course," I said carelessly "I'll be just outside the door."

I went through the door swiftly, and halted in the corridor outside. In less than two minutes, Marion and Carolyn came through the door, and I moved toward the stairway, secure in the knowledge that Lillian could manage Helena.

To the Library

"This way, girls," I said carelessly, and led the way down to the library, where we were joined almost immediately by Lillian and Helena, and, a few minutes later, by my father, "Mr. K," Katharine, Dr. Twitchell and the two boys, Roderick and Junior.

But I was not destined to play hostess at the supper With'm five minutes after seating ourselves at the dining room table Katie came to my chair, her whole body taut with excitement.

"Somebuddy to see you in the kitchen, mit important message," she said, then, as she pulled the dining room door closed after us, she whispered: "Eet's dot Meesis Kent, Charlie Kent's wife und she's awful excited."
